PREFACE

IT may readily be imagined that a résumé of cricket, even in a country young as Canada, must be one that can only account for the more important matches that have been played during such a period as sixty years. The compilers of this book, which is really one of reference, had intended it to be more than this. In addition to the greater matches, games of an International and Interprovincial character, it was hoped that, at all events, club matches would have received more notice. Space, however, or rather lack of space, forbade what would have been especially attractive to many of our cricketers of the past and present. The scores of over two thousand matches had been collected, and were still being added to, when the compilers became filled with consternation as the manuscript assumed such prodigious proportions that it was found about ten volumes would be necessary to record the mass of matter on hand. Then commenced the work of eliminating material gathered at great trouble, although not without pleasure, and it was finally decided to give as much early cricket as possible outside of the leading International, Interprovincial, and Public School matches, and to leave to some future historian the task of writing a separate volume devoted to the cricket lore of the leading clubs.

Our thanks are gratefully tendered to those writers who have contributed to the more attractive portions of the volume, and have thus helped to make the book one that may charm many moments in years to come. In addition, others have cheerfully assisted to make this collection as complete as possible, and we acknowledge our indebtedness to Mr. Morgan, of Philadelphia, and Mr. Wright, of the New York Clipper; as well as to Judge Dartnell, of Whitby;

Mr. Van Homrigh, of Millbrook; Mr. G. G. S. Lindsey, of Toronto; Mr. R. B. Ferrie, of Hamilton; Mr. Rykert, of St. Catharines; Mr. Browning, of Montreal; Mr. W. A. Henry and Mr. T. J. Cahalane, of Halifax; Mr. George W. Jones, of St. John; Mr. W. M. Bannatyne, of Winnipeg; Mr. E. M. Watson, of Trinity College School, Port Hope; and Mr. J. H. Senkler, of Vancouver.

The readers of this volume will regret to learn that Lord Hawke's "Reminiscences of Cricket in Canada," after having been written and revised, was unaccountably lost. We are, indeed, sorry to lose what would have proved a most attractive feature of the volume, as any remarks coming from such a genuine sportsman and cricketer, popular alike in England, Canada, India, and the United States, would have been read with delight by cricketers everywhere.

INTRODUCTION

THE literature of Canadian cricket is, unhappily, scarce. Beyond the press reports of matches scattered here and there through the newspapers of the day, there is little to help him who would review the progress of the game to read its history. The authors of this volume have meritoriously performed a praiseworthy task in collecting from difficult sources the material for a book in which he who runs may read in interesting form the important events of well-nigh a century of cricket.

The writer, not long since, dealing historically with this subject in a series of magazine articles, learned to appreciate how much such laborers as those who have toiled to produce these pages were needed in this field. The influence men exert upon events is not felt in its strongest sense at the moment. It is well not to allow too many years to roll by, too many heroes to pass away, nor their deeds to fall too far into perspective before being chronicled upon the page of history, lest time should obscure their true relation to the progress of affairs. These authors have recalled men and events from the past to record them on the proper page of fame, and exhibit them in their true light. The publication of this book is, therefore, most timely, and is sure to meet with the warmest appreciation of lovers of cricket in Canada, and, indeed, elsewhere.

As a stimulant to future generations, this book will exert its best and greatest influence. Every season finds those who begin to feel the march of years, those whose limbs time is robbing of their wonted suppleness ; but if they must needs make way for younger blood, their children will read with enthusiasm of what their fathers have accomplished, and, thus stimulated, will wield the bat, feeling that they have not only a record of their own to establish, but that of their fathers to maintain.

How many sires have gloried in their laurels won at cricket ; how many of their sons will do the same ? Will not these boys be more proficient if the deeds of those they love are given them to read and study and to stimulate them at their play ? Have there not been those who have labored well and accomplished much to advance the interests of the game, and does not the future hold such workers ? Will not those who are to play their part be more enthusiastic when they learn and know how those who went before them have played theirs ? The answers to the authors of this volume will proclaim that by their timely work, so ably done, they have made posterity their enthusiastic debtors.

G. G. S. LINDSEY

REMARKS BY MR. TERRY

I HAVE been asked by my friends, Mr. Hall and Mr. McCulloch, to write a few lines on Canadian cricket. I must, however, confess that my friends have chosen a very unworthy person for such a purpose, as my experience of cricket in Canada only extends over a period of five years. I will, however, endeavor to treat the subject generally, and from three different standpoints, viz.: (1) Scientific; (2) muscular; (3) as the game par excellence which brings unity and good-fellowship between mankind generally all over the world.

First of all, then, where does the science show itself in this noble English game? I have heard the question asked over and over again since I have been in Canada, where our national game has got so many rivals to contend with in the games of baseball, lacrosse, and more especially, perhaps, climate and turf, and last, but not least, money. I always answer this question by asking my enquirer to watch either a professional bowler or an amateur batsman in a first-class match and observe the eye of both. Watch the supple wrist as the one bowls the ball and the other wields the willow—how the casual observer who does not understand the game from the scientific standpoint imagines that it is simply a matter of ball versus bat, and vice versa, but really, brought down to a fine point, it is the mind of the one opposing the mind of the other. Taking for granted that the fielders are all perfect in their art, how, directly the mind of the bowler is superior to that of the batsman, when the ball is being delivered, the batsman must be out, either bowled, caught, stumped, or leg before wicket.

In fielding and throwing in to the bowler or wicket-keeper, science is very predominant. No greenhorn can field, pick up and throw in to the wicket unless he has taken pains to practise and make himself proficient in this department of the game. I am quite sure that fielding is still thought too little of, especially by those who consider themselves first-class in the game as a whole. Again, wicket-keeping is, I consider, a science in itself, apart entirely from the other parts of the game, and here especially, I should say, a perfect eye, a brain perfectly free from any cloud, either from the foaming bowl or over-indulgence in nicotine, or, in fact, any mental disturbance, is a sine qua non. In fact, I would recommend to every cricketer to keep mind and body in perfect training far more than for baseball, lacrosse, or even football. Early hours both for retiring to rest as well as for rising in the morning, no whiskey, a moderate amount of beer, not too much of the friendly weed, are some of the hints I would suggest to any man or boy who wishes to reach the top of the tree in any department of the game, but especially if he wishes to reach the century in the international match, or to keep the sticks to a fast bowler with the scoring sheet free from byes.

Secondly, it must be granted by all unprejudiced athletes that cricket is second to none as a healthy sport. There is no single muscle of the body (it has been demonstrated) which does not come into action during a game of cricket. A game, therefore, which thus combines mind, eye, and muscle in one, together with fresh air, summer weather, the smell of new-mown grass, the fragrance of the flowers, must of necessity be a healthy recreation.

Finally, I would say, apart from any thought of Canadian cricket, I am quite sure, from both personal experience and otherwise, that there is no game in the world that so much has the tendency to advance, ratify, and seal that bond of union which should exist between mankind generally. View the subject from a personal, social, or national standpoint, and, if you think for a while—call up in your memory the noble game from its infancy to the present perfection to which it has reached—you will come, I am sure, to the same conclusion as myself and the majority of cricketers.

Let me close these remarks, which I fear are very unworthy of a place in such a praiseworthy work as that on Canadian cricket, with a caution to both beginners and advanced players—the man who talks most about his prowess in the cricket field is generally the man who shines the least when he has “donned the flannels.”

The words of that good old English song on cricket will perhaps do for the finale of these remarks :

Let others fish and hunt and sport
Afar o'er ocean's foam ;
Give me the game that's played among
The sweet green fields of home—
The wickets pitched in level spot,
Beneath an open sky ;
No sport for pleasure or for health
With cricket them can vie.

CANADIAN CRICKET

CHAPTER I.

EARLY CANADIAN CRICKET: 1834-1860.

CRICKET was introduced into Canada about the year 1829, and clubs were formed and the game played in Toronto, Guelph, Kingston, Woodstock, Montreal, and Hamilton prior to the decade of 1840.

For a long time matches with different towns were of rare occurrence, railways being in their infancy and the means of transit slow and fatiguing, and it was not until the year 1834 that matches with competing clubs were arranged and played.

It is not our intention to write a long introduction to Canadian cricket, but to give such records of important events as we have been fortunate enough to obtain.

In 1834, as before mentioned, the first match of which we have any record took place at Hamilton, the contesting teams being Guelph and Toronto. The account only mentions the innings of the former eleven, and says that "Guelph went to bat, and play was commenced by E. Thompson and White, whose wickets, with but four runs, soon fell to Lane's bowling. Wilson and W. Thompson stood up next, and after displaying very fine and steady batting, and adding the former ten and the latter seventeen runs to the score, had their wickets lowered by A. Beeston.

"Barnard commenced his innings with strong play, and, dashing out boldly and safely, had scored thirty-one runs when caught out.

"Lane caught Murton the first ball, and Nicholls, who batted beautifully, went out for nineteen runs. Total of the innings, 104."

The Hon. John Beverley Robinson played in this match. He was at the time in his thirteenth year, and attending Upper Canada College. He informs us that this was the first match in Canada played between clubs at any distance from each other.

The next match we find any account of is one between the same clubs, and was also played at Hamilton, this being about half way between the two places. We give the scores of this match in full:

After the match was over, the members of the clubs sat down with their respective friends to a sumptuous dinner at Burley's Hotel, and the most perfect harmony and good feeling prevailed on the occasion. The chair was taken by the member for the town.

The late Chief Justice Draper was the first man to bat for Toronto.

Mr. John Wilson, who played in this match, came to Canada with his two brothers, James and Frederick, about 1830. His full name was John Combe Wilson.

They were brothers of Sir Archdale Wilson, who defended Lucknow, and were all well-known cricketers, but John was the most prominent. He was considered the best long-stop in Canada, and in later years had a habit of dropping on his left knee as the ball approached him, thus effectually preventing the ball "going through him."

He was one of the best bats of his time, hitting principally to the off between point and cover-point, and in the slips; and was also a free hitter to long leg; he kept wickets sometimes, and was such an enthusiastic cricketer that he continued playing after one of his lungs had become perfectly useless.

In the same year cricket was played at Kingston, the matches being between the civilians and the artillery.

The return match between Guelph and Toronto was played on the 24th of September, 1835.

Penfold umpired for Guelph, and Slater for Toronto.

The following are the scores of the match, which was won by Guelph with 75 runs to spare :

Mr. John Kent, one of the first masters of Upper Canada College, played for Toronto in this match.

The year 1836 saw cricket played for the first time at Upper Canada College, and the following article taken from the Patriot of July 15th of that year gives a full account of the match :

TORONTO v. UPPER CANADA COLLEGE.

"National amusements are emblematic of national character; they partly borrow their tone from it, and partly contribute to form it. The fiery, restless Arab delights in the tournament of the jereed; the indolent, sententious Turk strokes his beard, and with the chess board before him whiles away hours without the motion of a muscle; the revengeful, stormy-souled Spaniard gazes with a savage glee on the dying struggles of the bleeding bull, and watches with a thrill of pleasure the risks and dangers encountered by the agile matador. The Englishman's game is Cricket. It is a pastime dear to the London nobleman and the Sussex peasant, to the full-blooded youthful aristocrat of Eton, and the honest plough-boy of Hampshire.

"The players' virtues in this game are promptitude, activity, cheerfulness, and noiseless vigilance. 'Still as the breeze, dreadful as the storm,' is every combatant.

"On himself each deems the fate of the contest to hang; and so long as there is hope, and that is as long as the game lasts, each bears up with pluck against an adverse tide of affairs. How fully, then, are the noblest traits of the English character manifested in this game! Cool courage, that does not spurt out at intervals, but runs on with even tenor; animation without bluster, and action with but few words. If an occasional exclamation escape the lips of the bowler or some vivacious player, it is as short and pithy as the Duke of Wellington's 'Up, Guards! and at 'em!' or His present Gracious Majesty's 'Go it, Ned.'

"The green sward is the battle ground; and gnarled, patrician oaks look down upon the scene with sombre complacency, little dreaming that their planks perchance will be trodden at no remote period by the striplings before them. The amusements thus carried on, amid the loveliest scenes of nature, and during the brightest, sunniest hours of summer, leave an influence on the mind no less strengthening and wholesome than on the braced and invigorated body.

"Such being our opinion of the surpassing excellency and virtues of cricket, we are delighted to hear that the boys of Upper Canada College have formed a cricket club. The members consist of some of the masters, ex-pupils, and boys at present pursuing their studies. The following are the officers:

"Patron, His Excellency Sir F. B. Head.

"President, Mr. Kent.

"Vice-President, Mr. Lukin Robinson.

"Treasurer, Augustus Keefer.

"Secretary, Larratt Smith.

"Sir John Colborne always took the deepest interest in the promotion of this noble game, and our present thoroughly English Lieutenant-Governor is too accurate an observer of human nature not to know that the amusements of youth tinge the character of the man, and that British feelings cannot flow into the breasts of our Canadian boys through a more delightful or untainted channel than that of British sports. A cricketer, as a matter of course, detests democracy, and is staunch in allegiance to his king.

"The young cricketers, anxious to flash their maiden weapons, challenged the Toronto club, on condition that White, a Sussex man, should be one of their eleven. The gauntlet thus thrown down was quickly taken up; and on Thursday the match was played.

"The College winning by an innings and sixteen runs ; the Toronto men sustaining a defeat as complete as that which has recently overtaken those wretched animals, yclept Radicals.

"At the conclusion of the match, His Excellency Sir Francis Head rode up to the ground, and was received with those clear-toned and hearty cheers which the lungs of staunch cricketers can so melodiously emit.

"We are happy to state that several cricket clubs have recently been formed in different parts of the province, and that Clapshaw's bats and Duke's balls are beginning to figure in the table of our imports."

A second game between the College and Toronto was played in the same year in July and August, with the result that Toronto was defeated because some of the eleven had left the ground before the game was over, thinking there would not be enough time to finish it.

The match was commenced near the end of July, and finished a week later.

The late Chancellor Spragge played in this match. He was an ardent cricketer, and, if not playing, was present at every match.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor was present during the match.

Matches were played at the College between the Boarding House and the Past and Present boys, the first of this kind being on the 1st of July, 1837, the Past and Present winning by nine wickets. Mr. Kent played with the Boarders, and Mr. G. A. Barber with the winners.

In July, 1837, we find the names of the following in the account of the match played between the Boarders and the Day Boys of Upper Canada College, some of whom are still living and engaged in various professional pursuits.

Boarders—T. Keefer, Henderson, Stoughton, Nichol, Larratt Smith, G. Smith, Connolly, Bate, R. Lewis, T. Lewis, and McLeod.

Day Boys—W. Jarvis, Fred. Jones, J. Ewart, W. Stanton, Samuel Jarvis, Stephen Jarvis, E. Hurd, Coleman, A. McDonell, C. Phillpotts, and S. McDonell.

The Boarders scored 148 runs, and the Day Boys 117.

On the 12th of September, 1837, a grand cricket dinner was held at the Woodstock Hotel, given by the members of the Woodstock Club. Captain Graham, R.N., occupied the the chair. Henry Stuart, son of Rear Admiral Lord George Stuart, and nephew of the Most Noble the Marquis of Bute, officiated as vice-chairman. Colonel Light, F. W. Barron, of Upper Canada College, and a numerous party, sat down to an excellent repast.

On the 2nd of August, 1837, Toronto played Upper Canada College, and was defeated by 49 runs.

The Patriot, describing the above match, says that "the challenge was given by Hamilton, who bet five and ten to one on their own players, so confident were they of success. They came to Brantford with colors flying—and on their return had them lowered to half-mast."

On August 8th, 1838, the officers of the 85th and 43rd Regiments met the Toronto club, but were easily defeated, as the following scores show :

The year 1840 saw the first foreign eleven visit Canada. We copy from the Cobourg Star, taken from the British Colonist of September 10th of that year, the following account of this remarkable and historic event :

TORONTO v. NEW YORK

"In the Spirit of the Times of the 22nd ult., and which reached us about the 27th, it was mentioned that a match at cricket was made with the Toronto club for five hundred dollars, and that the New York players would arrive in Toronto about the 1st inst. The attention of our cricketers was naturally excited, but, as they were in possession of no official information to corroborate this notice, it was considered as one of those unauthorized articles which often find their way into even respectable newspapers, and the subject became gradually forgotten. Great, however, was the astonishment of our club to learn, on Wednesday last, that the said notice was founded on fact, and that eighteen gentlemen of the New York club had actually arrived here for the express purpose of playing what they had been led to understand was already arranged, a stake-match at cricket with the Toronto players.

"A largely attended meeting of the Toronto club was held, when the secretary read a statement handed him by the New York club, from which it appears that an individual, calling himself a member of the Toronto club, had visited New York as the Toronto club's authorized agent to conclude a match between the respective clubs, and that he was fully empowered to arrange the preliminaries of the match, and which he proposed should be as follows, viz.: The match to be played 'home and home,' the first being at Toronto; each club to pay the others' expenses to their respective grounds; no definite sum was named, but the individual said the Toronto club would play for any sum from one hundred to five thousand dollars; that this individual on leaving New York (which he did, we understand, about the 15th ult.) said that he would communicate to his club the arrangements he had made, that no further correspondence was necessary, and that the New York club had only to signify to the Toronto club that the match was to come off, and the Toronto club would be in readiness to receive their fellow-cricketers from New York ; that on the 13th of August another letter was mailed to Toronto, naming the agreement in the general way and fixing the 29th ult. for the departure of the St. George's Club from New York. It is proper to mention here that the letters above referred to were addressed to a gentleman absent from the city, and it having occurred to the writer that possibly the letters had not been forwarded he went to the post, accompanied by one of the New York gentlemen, and found the two letters lying there ; they were taken out, the handwriting of the address identified ; they were opened in the presence of the New York gentlemen, and their contents found to correspond exactly with the statement of the St. George's Club. These letters were produced and read at the meeting ; the statement then proceeded to say that this individual gave his name, which is that of a highly respectable family, but which at present it is thought inexpedient to publish, and also represented himself to be an officer in Her Majesty's service, and that from these causes the New York gentlemen were impressed with the belief that all was right, and therefore started on their long pilgrimage, fully satisfied that the Toronto club would be ready to welcome them on their arrival. These various considerations having been carefully discussed, a committee consisting of Colonel McKenzie Fraser, W. H. Boulton, and John Barwick, Esquire, was appointed to meet the committee of the St. George's Club, and were instructed on behalf of the Toronto club :

"(1) To express their ignorance of the whole affair.

"(2) The regret of the Toronto club that the New York gentlemen had received such a disappointment.

"(3) That in order that the visit should be made agreeable the Toronto club would be happy to play the St. George's Club of New York a friendly game, say for £50 sterling ($250), and to request the pleasure of entertaining the St. George's Club at dinner after the game is finished.

"The arrangements were accepted by the St. George's Club.

"It is somewhat remarkable that while these things were going on in New York, a match between the Toronto and Guelph clubs was on the tapis, and had not the match been most unexpectedly interrupted the Toronto players would have met their antagonists at Guelph on the very day after the New York gentlemen arrived at Toronto.

"The match was commenced on Friday, at 10 o'clock. The weather was very fine, and the whole affair went off with eclat. Among the numerous spectators was His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir George Arthur.

"The following are the scores of the match :

" On Saturday a match was made with sides promiscuously chosen, which lasted throughout the day, and afforded some capital amusement.

" It having become generally understood that the Toronto Cricket Club would entertain their New York friends at dinner, the Toronto Bowling Club asked to be allowed to participate in the feast, which request was readily granted.

" At half-past seven the company sat down to dinner at the Ontario House.

" W. H. Boulton, Esquire, Vice-President Toronto Cricket Club, in the chair; John Barwick, Esquire, Thornhill, acting as croupier. On the right of the chair sat R. N. Tinson, Esquire, President of the St. George's Cricket Club, supported by Mr. Jessup. On the left sat John Ewart, Esquire, President of the Toronto Bowling Club, supported by B. H. Downing, Esq., one of the secretaries of the St. George's Society of New York. The members of the bowling club, who mustered in force, and of the respective cricket clubs being conveniently intermingled.

" After the cloth had been removed, the following toasts were given from the chair :

" (1) ' The Queen, God bless her!' nine times nine. Song, ' God Save the Queen.'

" (2) ' The St. George's Cricket Club of New York,' nine times nine.

Mr. President Tinson returned thanks.

" (3) ' Our Fellow-countrymen and Brother Cricketers in the United States.' (Great acclamation.)

Mr. Jessup returned thanks.

" (4) ' The St. George's Society of New York.' (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Secretary Downing returned thanks.

" (5) ' The Athletic Games and Field Sports of Old England —may they never be forgotten on this side of the Atlantic!' (Loud cheers.)

" (6) ' The Sons of St. George, St. Andrew, and St. Patrick, all the world over,' nine times nine.

"Every unpleasant feeling was eradicated, hospitality and good feeling having drawn the sting of disappointment.

"The person who made arrangements with the St. George's Club for the match represented himself as Mr. Phillpotts, but that gentleman was fully exonerated by both clubs, and was acknowledged by the New York party to be altogether a different person from the so-called 'Mr. Phillpotts' whom they had seen in New York."

The following account shows that the Woodstock Cricket Club was one of the pioneer clubs of Ontario.

WOODSTOCK v. GUELPH

Played at Woodstock, September 8th and 9th, 1840. The match was described by the local papers as the most interesting ever played in Canada—because the most keenly contested.

From 1840 to 1843 we searched in vain for records of Canadian cricket, although we are informed by Mr. V. H. Steele that a club known as the "Carleton Cricket Club" was established in 1840 in the city now known as Ottawa. That games were played we are confident, but the papers did not report them, and, in consequence, we have to pass on to 1843, in which year we find that a cricket club was organized in Cobourg, and that on the 24th of June this club played its first match. The contest was between the bachelors and benedicts, the former winning by four wickets.

The Cobourg Star of July 5th, in the same year, has the following paragraph from the New York Anglo-American :

"We are authorized to state that the members of the St. George's Club of New York are open to play a match against any eleven in the United States or Canada."

"A game of cricket," says the Star, "under such a melting sun as we now are blessed with, would be no joke, or else 'we guess' that there could be found eleven 'good men and true' in this colony of ours who would maintain the reputation of the game against the New York club. Even our good old friend, PILCH, would decline the honor against such fearful odds as a thermometer at eighty in the shade."

The same paper, of August the 6th, 1843, has the following reference to cricket from the Montreal Herald :

After praising cricket, and urging Canadians to take up the game, it says :

"We only wish we had a little of this cricketing spirit in Lower Canada, for we have an idea that if we could only once get Jean Baptiste to handle a bat properly we should soon make him a good Englishman."

The Star, commenting on the above, says that "These are just our opinions, and we feel proud in witnessing the introduction into this province of those fine manly sports of Old England. We love every recollection of our early home; and we are fully convinced that the more frequently these recollections are called up, the more we will admire and the more firmly we will cling to that glorious country. The sports of the people have much to do with the formation of national character, and the time occupied by a game of cricket is far better spent than in political meetings or party brawling."

The following references are copied from the papers published during the period in which the matches were played:

The Garrison winning by 21 runs. For the winners, Wynne made 5 and 13; Allis, 0 and 11; Willoughby, 2 and 11, not out; English 0, not out, and 12.

For Kingston, Sharpe made 0 and 13; Dyck, 14 and 0.

The return match was played on August the 1st, Kingston winning by one run. Scores: Kingston, 94 and 76; Garrison, 98 and 71.

43RD LIGHT INFANTRY v. MONTREAL GARRISON

July 29th, 1843.

At Montreal, on St. Helen Island, a match was played between the 43rd Light Infantry and the Montreal Garrison, the former winning by 53 runs. Scores:

43rd Light Infantry 109 and 100

Montreal Garrison 64 and 93

For the winners, J. Neal made 17 and 20; Lieut. Lambert, 3 and 18; C. Stace, 30, not out, and 19; Weyland, 13 and 1, not out.

For the Garrison, Daly (89th) made 20 and 20; Mills (89th), 11 and 11; Shepperd (89th), 6 and 13; Hoar (89th), 2 and 12; Fisher (R.A.), 3 and 11.

Toronto winning by 122 runs.

Mr. Winckworth made 12 and 69; Mr. Barber, 2 and 15; Mr. Maddock, 2 and 12; Mr. Barwick, 20 and 0; Mr. J. B. Robinson, 14 and 13.

For the Garrison, Mansbridge scored 0 and 11 ; and G. Purdy, 12, not out, and 0.

TORONTO v. TORONTO GARRISON

August 9th, 1843.

SCORES.

Toronto	147
Garrison	31 and 55

Toronto winning by an innings and 61 runs.

For the winners, Mr. Simpson scored 25 ; Mr. Barron, 17 ; and Mr. Barwick, 36.

The return match of 1843, Toronto v. St. George of New York, which was to have been played on the Toronto ground on the 25th of July, collapsed completely.

A rumor reached Toronto that three members of the Philadelphia club had lately been added to the St. George's to strengthen their force for the return match. The Toronto club felt that this was a violation of the conditions on which the match was framed. The St. George's men took a different view, and brought the new men on the ground. Neither party deemed itself authorized to waive the point in dispute, and the match was not played, although each team was on the ground.

ST. GEORGE'S ELEVEN AND PHILADELPHIA v. GUELPH AND U. C. COLLEGE

On Friday morning, the 26th of July, 1843, it was announced that a match had been arranged by a Guelph gentleman, then in the city, with the Guelph eleven, and that five members of his club and six from U. C. College would play the St. George's club, including the three Philadelphians.

The game was played, with the following result :

HAMILTON CRICKET CLUB

On Monday, May 10th, 1847, at Young's Hotel, Hamilton, the above club was organized, with the following as its first officers :

PRESIDENT :

Peter H. Hamilton.

VICE-PRESIDENT :

Miles O'Reilly.

SECRETARY :

G. H. Southam.

TREASURER :

Stephen M. Jarvis.

COMMITTEE :

J. E. Sabine, G. W. Baker, Jr., F. Haycock, C. Sadlier, H. Bull, A. Roxborough, and R. R. Smiley.

The laws of cricket, as "published by G. A. Barber, Esq.," were adopted.

Cricket was, however, played much earlier in Hamilton than this period, as the account of the match with Brantford, in 1837, shows.

On July 21st and 23rd, 1847, two teams of the Aurora Club, of Montreal, played a match, commencing at the unusual hour of five o'clock in the morning.

The first match between Toronto and Hamilton was played in August, 1847.

HAMILTON v. TORONTO

SCORES.

Hamilton	55 and 70
Toronto.....	75 and 51 for 4 wickets

For the winners, Helliwell made 36 in the first innings ; in the second innings Maddock made 18 (not out), and Alexander 14.

For Hamilton, C. Hale made 12 in the first innings ; Sadlier 14 and Hamilton 15 in second innings.

UPPER CANADA v. U. C. COLLEGE

August 31st, 1847.

SCORES.

Upper Canada	69 and 65
College	88 and 69

For the College, Connolly make 25, and Phillpotts 19, first innings ; Barber 30, and Barron 22, second innings.

For Upper Canada, Hamilton made 10 and 13 ; Hale 14, second innings ; Corrigal 11, second innings.

GUELPH v. HAMILTON

At Guelph, October, 1847.

SCORES.

Guelph	63 and 44
Hamilton	97 and 11 for 1 wicket

For Guelph, Jas. Wilson made 18 and 17 ; E. Thompson 18, first innings.

For Hamilton, G. Sharpe made 26, Hamilton 19, and Sadlier 14.

HAMILTON v. GUELPH

At Hamilton, October, 1847.

SCORES.

Guelph	95 and 50
Hamilton	119 and 28 for 1 wicket

For Guelph, G. Barber made 24 and 12, Hogge 14, Jas. Wilson 12, E. Thompson 10, and W. Thompson 10 ; J. Colson 12, in second innings.

For Hamilton, Sadlier made 24 and 11 (not out), Bull 24 (not out) and 14 (not out), J. Sharpe 14, and G. Sharpe 13.

Hamilton defeated Toronto on the 19th of August, 1847, on the ground of the latter club, by two wickets. The teams dined at the American in the evening. Scores :

Hamilton.....	77 and 36 for 8 wickets
Toronto	22 and 89

Hamilton: G. Sharpe 14, Hale 21, first innings; Toronto, Phillpotts 17, second innings.

HAMILTON v. TORONTO

August 29th, 1848.

SCORES.

Hamilton.....	69 and 25
Toronto	108

Toronto winning by an innings and 14 runs.

According to The Spirit of the Times the following matches were played in Canada in 1848 :

- Belleville v. Kingston.
- Brantford v. Hamilton (two).
- Darlington v. Toronto (two).
- Hamilton and Dundas v. Flamborough West.
- Montreal v. Toronto.
- Married and Left-handed v. Single Players of Hamilton.
- Paris v. Hamilton.
- Rifle Brigade v. Upper Canada College.
- Seniors v. Juniors of Guelph.
- Toronto v. Hamilton (two).
- Toronto v. Military of Upper Canada.
- Upper Canada College v. Gentlemen of Upper Canada.
- Woodstock v. 20th Regiment (two).

TORONTO v. MONTREAL

In August, 1849, the above clubs met for a friendly contest, the former proving victorious by an innings and 101 runs, the scores being: Toronto, 218; Montreal, 34 and 83. Messrs. Parsons, Sams, and Heward all played grandly for their respective scores of 51, 52, and 58 (not out). For the losers, Mr. Conolly made 3 and 16, Mr. Meline 0 and 17, Mr. Wilgress 2 and 12.

HAMILTON v. WOODSTOCK

Woodstock defeated Hamilton on September 28th, 1849, by 44 runs, and was, in the return match, defeated by Hamilton by six wickets.

SCORES.

Woodstock.	34 and 57
Hamilton.....	74 and 18 for 4 wickets

For the winners, Gillespie made 25, G. Sharpe 11, and Bull 10.

For Woodstock, Farmer made 13 in first innings, and Wetherall 22 in second.

From the Toronto Patriot, 1849:

"On Thursday last we had the pleasure of witnessing the presentation by the ladies of a very handsome and appropriate banner to the cricket club, said banner being the work of their own fair hands. The band of the Rifle Brigade was present, and a match played between two elevens of the club. A pause in the game having occurred, the ceremony of presentation took place, and Mrs. Barber and Mrs. J. B. Robinson, as representing the ladies, proceeded to mid-wicket, the members of the club assembled around in cricketing costume, each bat in hand, the banner was duly presented, Mrs. Barber reading the address, and G. A. Phillpotts, Esq. (President of the T.C.C.), replying for the club. Immediately after the presentation the flag was hoisted above the stand, and as it unrolled itself to the 'favoring air' it was welcomed with a hearty round of applause, the band striking up the National Anthem. At the conclusion of the ceremony three cheers were called for the 'Ladies'—three more for the 'Lady of ladies,' the Queen—and three for the Toronto club. There was a large muster of spectators to witness the proceedings, and the company appeared to take a lively interest in the gratifying compliment thus paid to the club."

A single wicket match was played on the Toronto cricket ground, June 7th, 1850, between Mr. Jonathan Sams and Mr. G. French, and Mr. James Sams and Mr. F. French, with the following result :

First Innings.		Second Innings.

The latter winning by one wicket.

The following is a copy of an accepted challenge issued in 1850 for a match between the Old Country residents and Canadians.

CRICKET CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

The undersigned has been authorized to accept the challenge put forth by J. B. Robinson, Jr., Esq., namely: To play a friendly game at cricket between eleven gentlemen (Canadian born, or who have learned the game in Canada), against eleven Old Country gentlemen, and the "Old Country Eleven" will be prepared to meet the "Canadian Eleven" on the Toronto ground any day previous to the 12th September, as shall be mutually agreed upon.

(By order),

Toronto, Aug. 23rd, 1850.

G. A. BARBER.

TORONTO v. WOODSTOCK

CRICKET CHALLENGES

ANNUAL MATCH

UPPER CANADA COLLEGE AGAINST UPPER CANADA

Eleven gentlemen of Upper Canada College will be happy to play the annual friendly game of cricket against eleven gentlemen of Upper Canada, to come off on the Toronto club ground, Thursday, July 24th, 1851.

(On behalf of the College),

Toronto, June 28th, 1851. J. BEVERLEY ROBINSON, JR.

CANADA AGAINST THE OLD COUNTRY.

Eleven gentlemen, Canadian born, or who have learned the game in Canada, renew their challenge of last year—to play a match at cricket against eleven “Old Country” gentlemen—to come off on the Toronto club ground, Monday, July 28th, 1851, or any other day that may be mutually agreed upon.

(On behalf of the “Canada” Eleven),

Toronto, June 28th, 1851. JOHN O. HEWARD.

TORONTO v. GARRISON

July 26th, 1851.

SCORES.

Toronto	137
Garrison	43 and 49

Toronto winning by an innings and 45 runs.

For the winners, Mr. Heward made the remarkable total of 74 (not out), going in first, and carrying his bat through the innings for the best exhibition of batting seen for many a day. Mr. Helliwell made 10, and Mr. Smythe 15.

During the season of 1851 the following matches were also played :

BYTOWN (OTTAWA) v. PRESCOTT

SCORES.

Bytown	76 and 33
Prescott.....	75 and 56

Prescott winning by 22 runs.

For Prescott, Godden made 10 and 0, Davy 15 and 0, Allen 8 and 17.

For Bytown, O'Laughlin made 24 and 0.

BYTOWN v. BELLEVILLE

1851.

An account of this match says: "The Bellevillians were received by the following courteous announcement in the morning's Whig :

"Eleven gentlemen from Bytown, where a good club for some years has been established, arrived yesterday per 'Prince Albert,' to contend against eleven gentlemen from Belleville, who arrived this morning in the 'Prince of Wales.' The game will take place on the Barrifield parade ground this day. The Bytown players are whalers, all able-bodied men, and will smash their opponents all to smithereens. That's our opinion."

In spite, however, of the Whig's prediction to the contrary, Belleville won the match by an innings and 15 runs.

SCORES.

Bytown	74 and 34
Belleville.....	123

For the losers, Capt. Ford made 12 and 0, Mr. Baker 18 and 5, Lieut. Morrison 20 and 14.

For the winners, J. Reeve made 20, Thos. Todd 14, Jas. Clarke 13, Isaac Reeves 12, and H. Ridley 11.

TORONTO v. COBOURG

August, 1851.

A merry party of Toronto cricketers left on board the steamer "Princess Royal" to play a game of cricket with the players of the pretty town of Cobourg. The latter club made 87 runs in the first attempt, and 51 in the second.

Toronto in one innings made 157, thus winning by an innings and 19 runs.

For Cobourg, Mr. R. Standley made 23 and 1, Mr. Barber, Jr., 11 and 6.

For Toronto, Mr. Birch made 12, Mr. Alexander 31, Mr. Tully 33 (not out), Mr. Patrick 13, Mr. C. Rykert 10. Messrs. Madison, Barber, Heward, Helliwell, and Parsons, only made 11 runs amongst them.

LONDON v. GARRISON

August, 1852.

SCORES.

London	124 and 81
Garrison	63 and 60

London winning by 82 runs.

The leading scores for the victors were made by A. C. Grafton with 15 and 1, B. Cobbett 30 and 2, R. Bayley 4 and 20, J. B. Schram 28 and 0, T. Ellis 6 and 36 (not out). For the Garrison, J. Duff, Esq., made 26 and 2, Sergt. Strong 3 and 11, Lynes 2 and 15, Major Chester 6 and 6.

HAMILTON v. TORONTO

August, 1852.

SCORES.

Hamilton.....	58 and 58
Toronto.....	65 and 52 for 4 wickets

Toronto winning by 6 wickets.

For the losers, J. G. Dykes made 16 and 6, H. B. Bull 20 and 13, R. C. W. McCuaig 0 (not out) and 15.

For the winners, Heward made 14 and 11, Johnes 16 and 3, Parsons 2 and 21 (not out), Pickering 1 and 12 (not out).

TORONTO v. DARLINGTON

September 16th, 1852.

SCORES.

Toronto.....	149 and 95
Darlington.....	73

Mr. Dexter played well for 10; Mr. Helliwell's 21 were made by fine batting; Mr. Heward scored 16 in his usual good style: Mr. Rykert played a brilliant innings for 38. Mr. Barber also scored 38 by good cricket, and Mr. Madison's 12 (not out) were made very neatly. The bowling of Messrs. Sutton and Cubitt was dead straight at the wicket the whole time, and in them Darlington had a pair of excellent bowlers.

For Darlington, the only players to make any showing were Messrs. Sutton, Holmes, and Cubitt, with 29, 12, and 7, respectively; in fact, the bowling of Sir William Young and Mr. Helliwell was too good to be denied.

CHAPTER II.

PARR'S ENGLISH ELEVEN IN CANADA.

THE first English eleven to visit Canada and the United States left Liverpool on the 7th September, 1859, and consisted of the following players : Caffyn, Lockyer, H. H. Stephenson, Julius Cæsar (Surrey), G. Parr, Grundy, Jackson (Nottingham), Wisden, John Lillywhite (Sussex), Carpenter, T. Hayward, Diver (Cambridge). Fred Lillywhite accompanied the team as reporter.

We learn from a book published in 1860 by Fred Lillywhite that a correspondence had been in progress as far back as 1856, between Messrs. W. P. Pickering, Montreal, R. Waller, New York, and Fred Lillywhite, London, respecting certain matches to be played in Canada and the States, but owing to the terms asked, just double what they received for this trip, etc., arrangements could not then be entered into. The American panic then intervened, but, as soon as it had subsided, and the "dollars" were again in free circulation, the correspondence was renewed between Messrs. Pickering and Waller, and owing to the former being so intimately known to Mr. Wilder, in London, a correspondence was carried on between these two gentlemen, and ultimately, by private interviews with the players themselves, Mr. Wilder became security, on behalf of Mr. Pickering, for the twelve to receive £50 each, and to have all their expenses paid from the time of their departure until their return to Liverpool. Previously to Mr. Wilder becoming responsible, Mr. Pickering had secured a sum of £500, through Mr. Waller, for two matches in the States, viz., New York and Philadelphia, and also £250 from Hamilton, Upper Canada.

Some doubt having arisen in the public mind as to whom the credit of getting the English eleven across the Atlantic should be attributed caused the following letter from Parr and Wisden to be published in Bell's Life, in London, January 8, 1860:

MR. EDITOR,—As there appears to be a good deal of doubt respecting the parties by whom we were engaged in our late transatlantic trip, we beg to inform you that our engagement to play the four matches was made solely with the Montreal Cricket Club, of Lower Canada, whose guarantee we accepted for our expenses and remuneration, and that we had nothing whatever to do with the States, or any one else, in the matter.

Yours, etc.,

GEORGE PARR.

JOHN WISDEN.

Mr. Pickering, on behalf of the Montreal club, therefore received £750, and had to conduct the English party throughout their travels, paying all expenses, and, when they were about to return to England from Quebec, the Montreal gentlemen had to make up a balance of something more than £100, which, however, we believe, has been now almost all collected. Such is the origin of these international contests, which received the most substantial assistance from the gentlemen in the States.

The following are the scores of the matches played in Canada :

Hardinge bowled two wides, Fisher bowled 1, Napier bowled 3.

In the second innings, J. U. Smith took 2 wickets for 10 runs.

All England won by eight wickets.

After the first day's play the Montreal club entertained the members of George Parr's team at a banquet at the St. Lawrence Hall. F. G. Johnson, Esq., Q.C., presided. In his speech, he said that 23 years before, when he first resided in Canada, the only attempts at cricket were some very small matches at St. Helen's Island, got up under the auspices of the garrison of that day. He was one of the members of the first club organized in Montreal.

On the conclusion of the match All England v. Twenty-two of Lower Canada another match was played, in which the six of the Englishmen who belonged to the United All England eleven with five Canadians were pitted against the remaining six who belonged to the All England eleven, having with them also five Canadians. The scores were:

This was intended to be St. George's Club v. The Canadian Eleven which played against the United States eleven, August 6th and 7th, but as some of the Canadian players had to return home others filled their places, and the Canadians were assisted by Mr. Vernon, of the United States eleven.

TORONTO v. PETERBORO' AND COBOURG

This match, played at Toronto in 1861, excited great interest, and was one of the best games of the season. Toronto made 247 runs and the united clubs 195, the former winning by 52 runs. The weather was delightful, and the attendance numerous and fashionable, the visit of H.R.H. Prince Alfred, Duke of Edinburgh, giving especial éclat to the occasion. Mr. Des Voeux who played in this match was afterwards Sir S. W. Des Voeux, and Governor of Hong-Kong. The following are the scores :

ELEVEN MILITARY v. "ALL COMERS"

Played at Toronto.

On Tuesday afternoon, the 21st of July, 1863, a match was commenced at Toronto between eleven military men and fifteen cricketers, "all comers." After the eleven had scored 54 runs with 8 wickets down, stumps were drawn at half-past six o'clock. The game was resumed next morning at ten o'clock. The weather was delightful, and the ground in capital order. The innings closed at 90 runs. The fifteen then went in and scored 90 before their last man was bowled out. The eleven again took possession of the wicket, and succeeded in running up a score of 100 runs, the last wicket falling about six o'clock.

The "All Comers" then commenced their second innings, and when stumps were drawn the board showed 26 runs without any wicket having fallen. The band of the 30th Regiment was on the ground, and performed several pieces of music. Next morning the innings of the fifteen reached 112, with two wickets to the good.

The highest scoring in the match was: For the eleven, Captain Hogge 10 and 11, Lord Cecil 30 (not out) and 13, Capt. Curtis 10 and 5, Mr. Grant 1 and 17, Private Gordon 3 and 17.

For the "All Comers," Mr. B. Parsons made 20 and 36, Lieut. Kinahan 11 and 7, Mr. Todd 12 and 1, Mr. Young 1 and 22.

MILITARY v. CIVILIANS

Played at Hamilton, August 28th and 29th, 1863.

The grand cricket match between eleven civilians selected from the several clubs in Canada West, and eleven of the military belonging to the same section, was played on the 28th and 29th of August, and was won by the civilians by one wicket. The following are the scores :

16TH REGIMENT v. HAMILTON

A cricket match was played at Hamilton on Wednesday, August 7th, 1867, between the 16th Regiment and the Hamilton clubs. The 16th Regiment won the toss and took the bat, sending in Messrs. Rivett and Mainwaring to the bowling of Hamilton and McKay. Capt. Horne, Ensign Wittuck, and Capt. Freeman were the only ones who succeeded in getting doubles. The bowling and fielding of the Hamilton club were very good.

The Hamilton club then took the bat, and sent in Messrs. J. M. Young and R. Hope to the bowling of Mr. Mainwaring and Sergt. Poe, but a change had to be made very soon, as it was evident that the batsmen had it all their own way. These two players after some fine batting ran up a score of 67, when Mr. Hope retired, after putting his leg in front of the wicket, with a well-played innings of 36, being two runs less than the score of the 16th Regiment.

SCORES.

The principal scorers for the 16th Regiment were: Capt. Horne 12, Ensign Wittuck 12, Mr. Drayton 4, Ensign Mainwaring 11, Capt. Freeman 15, Pte. Widdison 5, and Mr. Drayton (not out) 5.

For Hamilton: J. M. Young 40, R. Hope 36, W. Nichols 7, T. Leggo, 7.

A cricket match was played at Hamilton on Thursday, 5th September, 1867, between the Civilians of Hamilton and the 16th Regiment. On the side of the Military, Major Hogge, Mr. Rivett, and Pte. Summers succeeded in getting double figures; on the side of the Civilians, Messrs. Thos. Swinyard and J. M. Young, after some very fine play, contributed respectively 36 and 35 to the score of the Civilians.

THE ALL ENGLAND ELEVEN OF 1868

After a period of nine years, a few of the enthusiastic patrons of the game completed arrangements with Mr. V. E. Walker to bring another eleven of English cricketers across the Atlantic. The team was a very strong one, and consisted of the following well-known players: Willsher (Capt.), J. Smith, Tarrant, Jas. Lillywhite, Jr., Charlwood, Pooley, Griffith, Humphrey, Jupp, Rowbotham, Freeman, and A. Shaw. The only match played in Canada was played in Montreal on September 22nd, 23rd, and 24th, 1868, against twenty-two of the Dominion, and resulted in the disastrous defeat of the Canadians. The play commenced on Tuesday, September 22nd, at twelve o'clock, and the twenty-two, winning the toss, decided to go in, but the bowling of Willsher and Freeman was so difficult that they were all out for 28. The English eleven followed, and made the large score of 310 for the loss of nine wickets, when the match had to be concluded owing to the cold, wet weather, and thus ended in a draw. The chief scores for All England were Griffith 69, Jupp 53, Smith 49, and Pooley (not out) 34.

13TH HUSSARS v. U. C. COLLEGE

June 2nd, 1869.

This match resulted in a victory for the College eleven. Mr. Revis, of the 13th, and Messrs. Long and Small, of the College team, batted with some effect. With their usual kindness, the officers of the regiment offered the services of their fine band, which played during the afternoon, and added greatly to the enjoyment of the match, which was witnessed by a large number of our leading citizens and of the officers of the garrison.

CHAPTER IV.

CANADIAN CRICKET 1870 TO 1880.

DURING this decade cricket was played in almost every town and city in Ontario. Quebec contributed a little, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were very prominent, British Columbia and the Northwest Territories made rapid advances, and only the great distances between these places prevented an interchange of provincial cricket. Two of the most popular men of this time were Capt. Wallace, of Halifax, with the 60th Rifles, and Mr. T. C. Patteson, of Toronto, and our readers will be glad to observe that both of these gentlemen have contributed most interesting articles on cricket and cricketers of their time to this work. Players of the present day have much to thank these gentlemen for, as their efforts undoubtedly gave an impetus to the game which was much required.

It may not be generally known that it was almost entirely due to Mr. Patteson's efforts that Mr. Fitzgerald's team visited Canada in 1872, and that we thus had the pleasure of seeing Dr. W. G. Grace, the greatest cricketer in the history of the game. Capt. Wallace was the life of cricket in Halifax, and through his influence and by his unwearied efforts cricket became as strong there as anywhere in the Dominion. The great Halifax tournament of 1874 was the result of his incessant labors.

The year 1878 was conspicuous as being the first year that Canada was visited by Australian cricketers, and the scores of the two matches played show that our cricket was far from being first class.

Our own clubs began to exert themselves, and ventured over the border to try their strength against the leading clubs of the United States, and Hamilton, in particular, was successful in its foreign matches.

MR. THOMAS GOLDIE

Guelph

President of the Ontario Cricket Association for many years

The year 1879 was a favored one for Canada, as the famous English eleven captained by Richard Daft paid us a visit, and played a number of games with our representatives. In addition to this, Sir G. Colthurst brought an eleven of Irish gentlemen, who made themselves deservedly popular everywhere they went. It is impossible to treat of individuals and localities here, as all space is required for extracts from the newspapers of the time, which give better than we can a true reflex of Canadian cricket of this period.

On the 20th of May, 1872, the graduates and undergraduates of Trinity College met together for a cricket match. Among the former were reckoned many that have long since "had privilege to physic, preach, and plead," yet who scorned not to "handle the willow" with the most youthful undergraduate. The graduates made 58, of which J. Kennedy made 28.

The undergraduates made 98. Chafer 10, Perram 16, Allen 13, and Logan 20 (not out), being the double figure scorers.

The undergraduates won by 40 runs.

Trinity College defeated Toronto by nine wickets on May 30th, 1872. Scores: Toronto 66 and 66; Trinity 82 and 52 for one wicket. The most remarkable feature of this match was in the second innings of Trinity, when Sills made six hits for three in succession.

CHAPTER V.

REMINISCENCES OF CANADIAN CRICKET.

By COLONEL WALLACE, of Bishopstoke, England
(Formerly stationed at Montreal and Halifax, with the 66th Rifles).

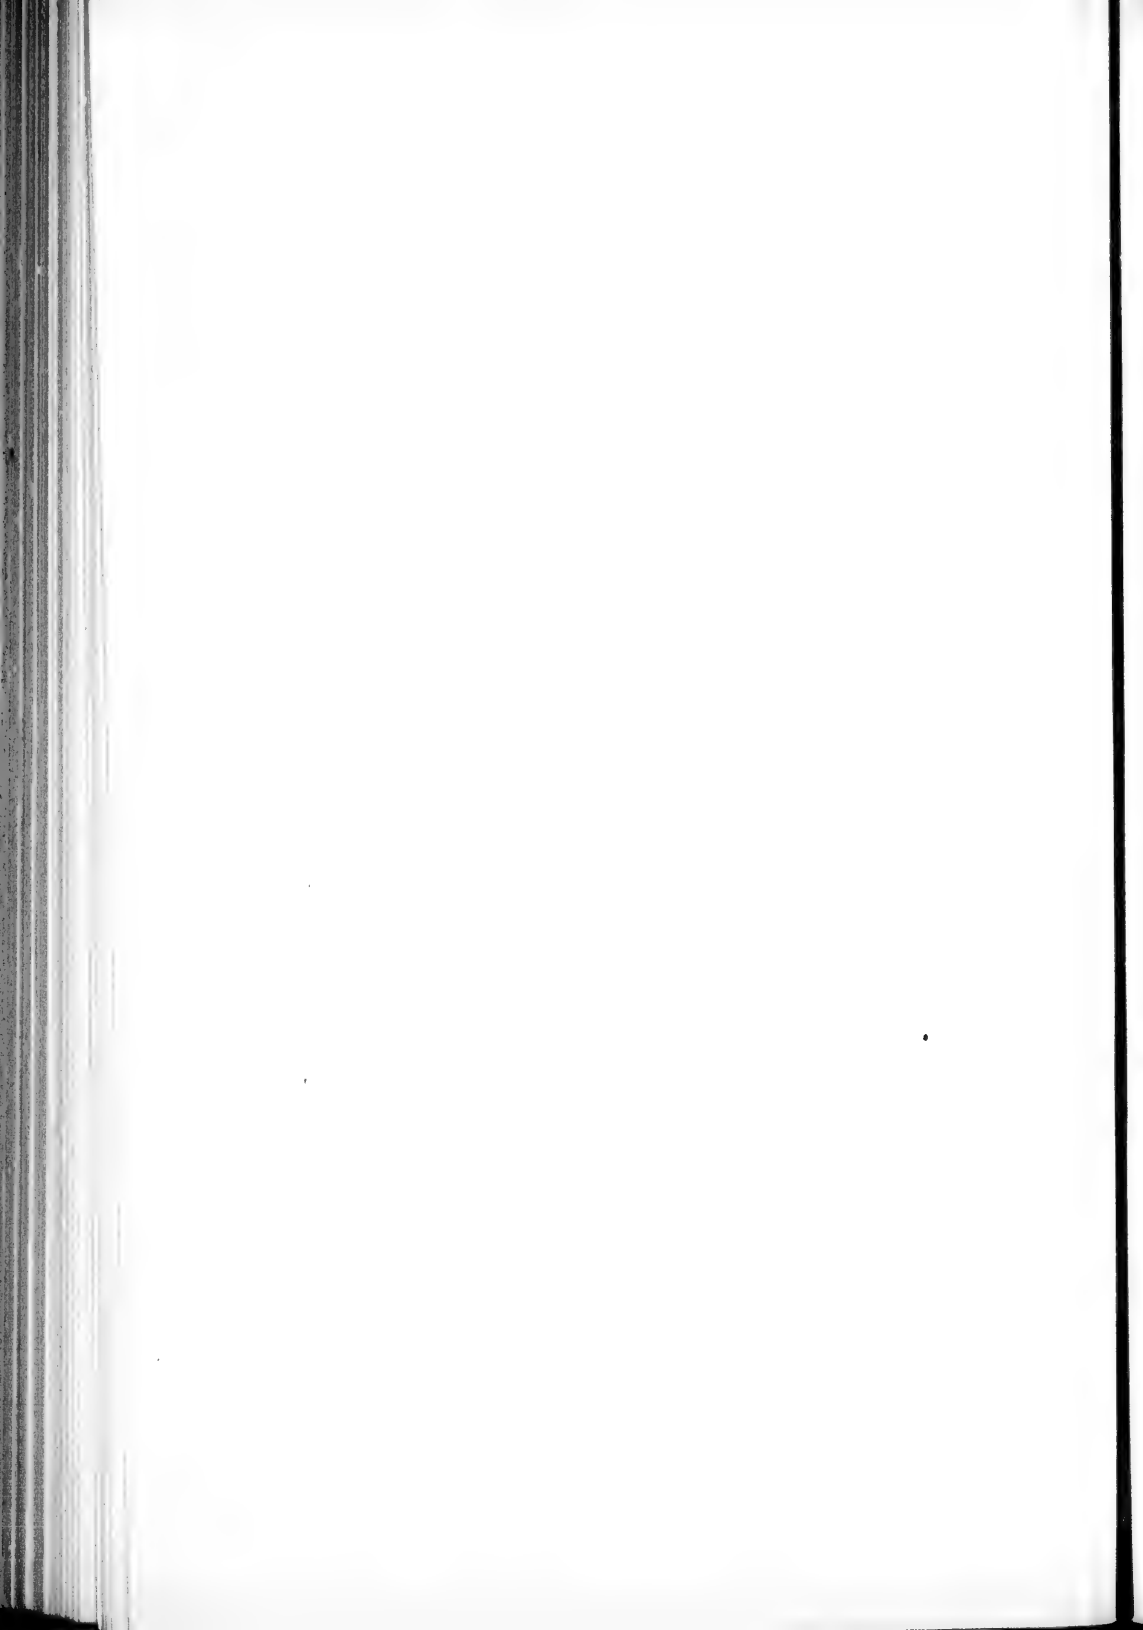

ONE morning in March, 1893, whilst resting in my little shanty in the pretty village of Bishopstoke, Hants, I got a letter from a namesake, a medical man and stranger, informing me that he had just received at his house in London a letter and some papers which he believed must be intended for me, as they were addressed to Colonel Wallace, 42 Harley Street, or Bishopstoke.

The following day I called on the professor, expecting, at least, to find myself heir to a fortune. Alas, as is ever the case, "my ship had not yet arrived," though a most pleasant surprise and greeting awaited me from my cricket friends on the other side of the Atlantic. But, oh! what consideration the contents of the letter required! An invitation to write my reminiscences of cricket in Canada from 1868 to 1878, and so help to contribute to the success of a history of Canadian cricket, about to be published. I confess, at first I felt dismayed at the difficulty of the task. Facts and deeds in the tented field to be hunted up; old scores and scenes revived; old comrades gone, and, alas, now only to memory dear—these, and a hundred other reasons for refusing, suggested themselves to me, but time and thought accomplished much, and, in my case, they bid me to remember what I owed to Canadian cricketers—heartly welcomes, kind words, and last, though not least, the pleasure of being remembered; so I determined to try to add my mite by giving my cricket reminiscences in Canada.

COL. WALLACE

Bishopstoke, England

After the pleasant gaieties of my first Canadian winter in Montreal, which resulted in my selecting a companion for life, I strolled out one spring day to inspect the St. Catharines cricket ground. Never shall I forget my sensations when I was shown a field all ridge and furrow. The assurances given me by my guide, "one in the know," that when the frost had disappeared the ground would become loose, were almost past belief; but experience of after years has proved to my satisfaction that, if anything, nature's action is, in the end, actually beneficial to both turf and ground. Lacrosse, I was informed, was the game most patronized in Canada, thousands of spectators flocking to witness the matches. The game is an excellent one when properly played (for the autumn), and if guarded by stringent rules, but is never, in my humble opinion, likely to supersede the noble game of cricket.

The first match of any interest during my first season in Canada, that I remember, was Montreal v. Philadelphia. The opposing teams were fairly representative, and, on a capital wicket provided by Ridley, the ground man of the St. Catharines club, a good old cricketer, the visitors were fairly outmatched. Rose's bowling proved too much for them, whilst Rose 39, Pepys 21, Hornby 46, Davies 19, Mainwaring 17, supplied the majority of the notches, amounting to 200, their opponents only placing 33 and 88 to their credit.

After considerable persuasion, promises of long drinks and a jovial evening, a return match was arranged for the following day, Montreal this time winning the toss, and amassing the large total of 336, of which Pepys contributed a splendid 101. Philadelphia replied with 58 for two wickets. Hearty good-byes and handshakings, and the visiting team started en route for Boston.

The usual inter-regimental matches occupied the greater portion of the season, varied occasionally by a civilian eleven trying their luck, but the garrison were too strong at all points, and with two such excellent bowlers as Rawes, R.A., and Townshend, 16th Regiment, the military remained masters of the situation.

In July, I started (by invitation) with a "Knickerbocker" (military) team to play St. George's and Philadelphia clubs at New York. We arrived at Saratoga on the 10th, and here our poet, unable to contain himself at the delights of this fashionable watering-place, burst out as follows :

Ye cricketers in England, that play at home at ease,
Ye little know the beauties your loving brother sees,
For the belles of Saratoga, ye would lay ye down and die,
Saw ye but a boot or ankle, or the twinkling of an eye.

Having sentenced him to a dose of Pierian salts, the thirteen "Knicks" tore themselves away, and, after a cheery passage on one of the floating palaces of the Hudson, soon found ourselves located at the Everett House. A Sunday's rest, good dinner and hearty welcome at the Travellers' Club, and the "Knicks" turned out on Monday on the St. George's ground, and, putting their opponents in, seemed, on the termination of the day's play, to have much the worst of it, but the bowling of Rawes and Townshend, and the batting of Davies, 32, and the captain (Wallace), 42 (not out), pulled them through, victorious by four wickets. Norley's (pro.) all-round play, Wright's (pro.) and Cross' batting, for St. George's Club, deserve especial mention.

In the second match the "Knicks" were opposed by a combined eleven of the St. George's and Philadelphia clubs, with three professionals. The hard tussle of the previous day, the extreme heat, 105° in the shade, and the effects of mint juleps and cocktails all told their tale, and the combined eleven scored a handsome victory, chiefly brought about by Meade's and Norley's bowling. The captain of the "Knicks" again came off, and was batting for over four hours for his 26 (not out) and 32, and was ably assisted by Pepys with a brace of 17's, but the others failed to score. The above two matches were the first and, I hope, the last I shall ever see played for money; and though the game in the end was on the side of the "Knicks," still they all agreed that betting on cricket is a mistake, and promised amendment in future.

In September an "All England Eleven" paid a visit to Montreal (journeying thence to New York), but the 22 opposed to them made but a poor show.

In the summer after the New York trip much interest was attached to two matches played at Toronto, "Military v. Civilians," during a "week" held on the Toronto grounds. In both matches the military were victorious, but it is not my intention to dwell on Toronto cricket, the details of which will doubtless be given elsewhere by other and more capable exponents.

Suffice it to say that I have always considered Toronto the home and centre of cricket in Canada, and that my military co-cricketers and I will ever look back with pleasure to the cricket of no mean class we enjoyed whilst quartered in Upper Canada, to the many friends we met, such as dear old Barber, the father of Canadian cricket. Well do I remember him and his cricket yarns, whilst he showed me his array of old bats, each of them with a story attached. One of them, about 70 years old now, helps to swell my collection, a valued souvenir of old times. Another curiosity also I have in the shape of a score sheet kept by him during the match "Old Country v. Canada," played at Hamilton, wherein every player and point of the game is criticized in no uncertain or always complimentary, though true, way. Nor shall I easily forget T. C. Patteson, Swinyard and the Brunels, Yarker, and many others of a kindred type, always keen and ready to promote bonhomie among sportsmen generally; but I am wandering on at too great a length. The season of 1870 was interrupted by the Red River expedition under (now) General Viscount Wolseley, and the willow gave way to the sword. On our return in the autumn, we had to bid farewell to our friends and seek new pastures, or, rather, ice cones in Quebec, where, after encountering the coldest winter "known to the oldest inhabitant," your correspondent embarked for Halifax, Nova Scotia, the land of his birth, a fact which often caused a dispute as to why he should play for the old country; but "babies can't be choosers," and, as his parents hailed from England, he claimed a right of nationality in consequence.

When asked to contribute a chapter on cricket for the authors of this volume. I was especially asked to relate my experiences and reminiscences of cricket in Halifax. Did it strike the friend who asked me that I had, perchance, a birth-right to do so? If so, it was a happy coincidence, and I am proud at being selected to do so by my fellow-countrymen; so here goes.

I can't say that I was impressed at first sight either with the ground at Halifax, when I visited it in the spring of 1871, as it presented the usual ploughed field appearance, or with the civilian cricket I witnessed afterwards. Cricket did not seem to inspire the youth as it did in later days. My sincere old friend, the late J. Tropont, whose acquaintance I speedily made, and whose knowledge of all points of the game I have seldom known surpassed by any one, with his white umbrella and minus any collar to his shirt, never missed a match; and whenever or wherever he could assist in promoting the game, and encouraging young cricketers to succeed, there he was to be found, and it was, in my opinion, mainly to his advice and tuition that ere long the civilian teams so greatly improved during my stay in Halifax.

Always overmatched by the military, or combined naval and military teams, the game was an uphill one for the civilians, but time after time did they show fight, and, as the scores show, made excellent stands. It so happened that the regiments composing the garrison were unusually strong, but, nothing daunted, the civilians came again and again.

My first experiences of civilian cricket in Halifax showed me that Upper Canada cricket, taken all round, was far superior to any that I was likely to see at Halifax, and that the best team that could be produced would be unable to cope with the unusually strong military cricketers in the garrison. With the exception of a few civilians, little interest and less form was shown. No doubt business greatly prevented many from playing or practising as much as they liked. Soon, however, greater interest began to show itself, and, as days went on, the ever-increasing desire to win a match from the garrison produced keenness, which, encouraged by the older hands, helped to render several matches of considerable interest. New men came to the surface, and showed what a little pains and practice can do. Dear old Tropont hunted up young hands, encouraged their efforts, and certainly in one instance was instrumental in unearthing a promising young bowler named Kearney; but I am somewhat anticipating matters.

Cricket clubs of any size in Nova Scotia were few and far between; consequently most of the cricket lay between the garrison, navy, and the civilian clubs in Halifax. Occasionally a match in New Brunswick varied the excitement. It needed, therefore, all the efforts of lovers of the game to keep up the necessary interest, as the same players were continually engaged fighting out the same contests year after year, save only varied by the introducing of some fresh regiment or ship.

The garrison, who leased the only ground, offered the use of it to the civilians, who, I regret to say, were not free from those differences which are sometimes found to exist in rival clubs.

The visit of the English eleven to Canada served to stimulate general interest in the game, and the support given in Halifax to the game by the naval and military, together with the keenness shown by them, helped in a great measure to bring cricketers together. The ground used to be well patronized by the élite whenever military bands delighted the onlookers, and ere long differences were forgotten and difficulties removed.

The Phœnix club was the leading civilian club, though the "All Comers" disputed the title, whilst several small clubs helped to swell the number. The principal matches were against the Phœnix and "All Comers," several players being members of both. It would take too long to enter into details as to the various matches and scores during the four seasons of my stay in Canada, so I will content myself with saying a few words about the principal players, military, naval, and civilian; and if, after so long an interval, I forget to mention any one who may consider his claims worthy of notice, I must plead forgetfulness as my excuse, and not any intention to slight him.

C. Ellis, C. Goreham, Col. Sawyers, K. Kearney, C. Bullock, J. Stubbing were the pick of the civilians, who, together with Singleton, Carpenter (87th), Davies, Keith, Turnour, and myself (60th), and Barker, R.E., were selected to represent Halifax v. "All Others" at the Halifax tournament. Daly, at the last moment, played instead of Goreham.

The choice of the eleven was upheld, as they won their match. Bullock, Carpenter, and Kearney bowled well, and were mainly instrumental in winning the match. The latter, with practice and good coaching, would have developed into a good all-round cricketer, but his business prevented both. The navy, though constantly changing, produced several excellent cricketers, notably DeCrespigny, Saville, Henderson, and Hodder. In addition to those before mentioned, the garrison could boast of such good men as Northey, an old Eton blue, Henley, Farmer, Fenwick, Toole (60th), Taylor and Wilson (87th), Douglas, R.A., also Luard, Barber, R.E.

Alas! several of the above have obeyed the last bugle call, but their memories still live amongst their old comrades.

The tournament of 1874 has already been written, and is still, I venture to think, happily remembered as a gala time, when pleasant friendships were made, and, let us hope, lasting ones, too. The return tournament, too, at Philadelphia, where our Yankee friends showed us what real hospitality meant, as also a good licking at our national pastime.

These and other such scenes are to "memory dear," but I have already trespassed too long on the kindness of my readers.

Before concluding my reminiscences of Canadian cricket and cricketers, I hope I may be allowed to take the opportunity now afforded me of expressing in print my sincere thanks—and I am sure I may also add those of my military cricketing confrères—to all cricketers with whom we came in contact during our stay in Canada for the many kindnesses and unbounded hospitality we always received. It is a pleasant time to look back on in one's old age, and to feel that during ten years of Canadian life—the pleasantest, I may say, of my life—I can remember no single match marred by dispute or angry words. On the contrary, good fellowship and sportsmanlike conduct were ever to the fore.

It was a matter of sincere regret to me leaving the country and the friends I had made, and right glad was I to have the opportunity some years later, when quartered at Portsmouth, to be able to be instrumental, in some small degree, in returning the many hospitalities I had, years before, received on the other side of the herring pond. Au revoir. N. CHAPTER VI.

CRICKET IN OTTAWA.

By V. H. STEELE.

A CLUB called the Carleton Cricket Club was established in 1840, in the place now known as Ottawa, and continued its existence until 1845. Cricket was not again heard of until 1849, when the Bytown Club was organized. The first players belonging to this club were : Messrs E. Sherwood, G. P. Baker (called the father of cricket in Ottawa), F. Clemow (the present senator of that name), Street, Dufton, Rajers, Torney, Keefer, Whittaker, Heney, and Laing. Mr. Baker (who was the postmaster) played as late as the seventies, and was a fair medium-paced round-arm bowler. The clubs played with at this time were Aylmer and Prescott. This state of things existed until 1865, when Capt. Pemberton, of the 60th Rifles, laid a crease at Rideau Hall, on which, at first, matches only were played, the club (now called Ottawa) practising on what is now called Cartier Square. Matches were played with the military eleven on Saturday afternoons.

In 1867, the Rifle Brigade was stationed at Ottawa, and in its ranks were several very fine cricketers. Their two bowlers, Foster and Brill, the former slow round arm, and the latter fast round arm, were considered by many, at the time, as the two best bowlers in America. The Ottawa eleven, in '67, contained the following well-known players : the Rev. T. D. Phillipps (now in Chicago), G. P. Baker, C. S. Scott, V. H. Steele (still playing), W. Ammond, W. Hunsworth, C. Fellowes, A. G. Peden, Capt. Pemberton, F. A. Wise, E. G. Powell, Sam Hardinge, E. Miall, and E. H. Benjamin.

Prescott and Brockville were the clubs mostly played with at this time.

MR. V. H. STEELE

Ottawa

For the next two years cricket suffered a relapse, but, in 1870, it again sprang into life, and matches were played with Almonte and Arnprior combined. Among the Almonte players, at this time, was Mr. J. Boothroyd, who had the proud honor of bowling W. G. Grace in 1872. Mr. Boothroyd was an under-hand "sneak" bowler.

In 1871 we find the following new names on the membership roll: Mr. Wm. Paine, H. A. Ford, S. A. McMurtry, H. V. Carpenter, W. B. Vennor, A. W. Powell, A. F. Kohler, and Wm. Carter. The eleven, in this year, was a very strong one. They defeated Arnprior by an innings, making 95 to the latter's 45 and 29. Ottawa also defeated Carleton Place, by 59 to 45. Two matches were played with Montreal. In the first match, Montreal made 133, and Ottawa 114. For the losers, Paine made 35, not out; Phillipps, 21; Scott, 10; and Ford, 10. The return match, which was played at Ottawa on the 7th of October, was won by Ottawa on the first innings, Brodie making 28 and Patterson 21. Kingston was also visited and defeated by an innings and 3 runs, Brodie making 21 (not out), A. W. Powell 15, Phillipps 10, and W. Carter 10.

In 1872 Montreal defeated Ottawa by 69 to 58. Belleville was also victorious, defeating the club from the Capital by 2 runs. The return match, however, was won by Ottawa with 53 runs to spare. Cobourg was defeated by 4 wickets, Toronto by 26 runs, Kingston by 102 runs. In the latter match Rev. T. D. Phillipps played a fine innings for 56 runs.

The match with Hamilton was unfinished, the scores being Hamilton 111, Ottawa 32 for one wicket. The last match of the season, against Carleton Place, was won by an innings and 34 runs.

In 1873 Toronto visited Ottawa. Great preparations were made for this match, and some very fine cricket was witnessed. The scores were: Ottawa 96, Toronto 36 and 56, Ottawa winning by an innings. For the winners, Rev. T. D. Phillipps made 40 by capital play. On the 19th of July Montreal defeated Ottawa by 24 runs.

Later in the season the Ottawa representatives visited Toronto, and this time the tables were turned, as Toronto won with six wickets to spare. On the return journey Kingston was visited and defeated by two wickets. The return game with Montreal was played on the 13th of September, when Ottawa suffered defeat to the extent of 173 runs to 63.

In 1874 Ottawa had sweet revenge, and defeated Montreal by 121 to 87. The principal scorers for the winners were: J. Brunel 31, Sinclair 16, G. Brunel 14, and Phillipps 11.

The history of the Ottawa club for the balance of this decade was a repetition of the previous years, Montreal being the club's principal opponent.

The year 1880 will long be remembered for the heavy scoring done by Montreal in its match against Ottawa on the 1st of July, the scores at the close of the day's play being: Montreal 402, Ottawa 130. It was in this match that Mr. A. Browning, of Montreal, made the record score for this continent, viz., 204, and up to 1894 this score still remained the undisturbed record for America.

In 1885 the celebrated Longwood Club, of Boston, visited Ottawa and won a very closely contested match by the narrow margin of one wicket. Peterboro' also visited Ottawa, and were defeated by an innings and 38 runs. For the winners, Little made 17, V. H. Steele 46, and George Brunel 60. Max Hamilton played a capital innings for Peterboro', and his 50 were prettily put together.

Montreal was defeated by 90 to 65, Little making 29, Steele 26, George Brunel 14, and Wilson 18. Perth was defeated by 172 to 56 and 109. K. Keefer made 56, Little 19, Steele 14, J. Brunel 17, Spencer 16, F. H. Smith 11, and V. May 15.

In 1886 Ottawa defeated Montreal by 100 to 55, George Brunel making 20, Brophy 13, and Little 11. Montreal in its second innings did much better, and the spectators were treated to a fine display of cricket by B. T. A. Bell, who made 42. Lacey, the Montreal professional, made 57 by equally good cricket.

The Ottawa eleven this year visited Boston. The first match played was with the "I. Zingari," on the 21st of June. Only one innings each was played, Ottawa winning by 11 runs. For the winners, W. C. Little made 20, and V. H. Steele 32. Full scores were: Ottawa 88, Boston "I. Zingari"

77. Geo. Wright made 24 for the losers. Next day Ottawa played Boston, on an immense place called the Boston Common. Ottawa, winning the toss, went to the bat; the ground was as hard as flint; Steele, who went in first with Little, had his thumb smashed, and was immediately afterwards bowled by a shooter. Coste replaced Steele, and commenced hitting everything. His fourth hit was a tremendous drive for 7 (run out), it taking three men to throw the ball back. The score at the close of the innings reached 241, of which number Little made 89, and F. H. Smith 78. In Smith's score there were only three singles.

The third match was with the Longwoods. The home team went in first and made 284 runs, Ottawa bowling and fielding with a wet ball. When the visitors went to bat it rained harder than ever, and Ottawa was prevented making even a decent draw, being beaten by an innings. For Boston (Longwoods), F. Mansfield made 80, S. Wright 43, Chambers (pro.) 30, Bixby 24, and Appleton 27.

For Ottawa, Steele made 33 and 0, Coste 26 and 15, and Wilson 18.

The Ottawa men, during their stay in Boston, were treated right royally, and the trip was thoroughly enjoyed by every man in the team.

The West India team defeated Ottawa by 26 runs, the scores being: Ottawa, 67 and 54; West India Gentlemen, 80 and 67.

For Ottawa, V. H. Steele made 15 and 20, A. G. Smith 22 and 4.

After the West India team came the Halifax Wanderers, who made 230 in their one innings to Ottawa's 118 and 64.

For the visitors, W. A. Henry made 92 runs, a very dashing innings.

1887 was a quiet year. A weak team visited Toronto and Hamilton; they were defeated by the former club, but made a fair draw with Hamilton. Kingston was defeated by ten wickets, and Montreal by an innings and 37 runs. The usual club matches were played on Saturdays.

In 1888, on the 2nd of July, the club defeated Montreal West by 206 to 35. For Ottawa, Bell made 58, Coste 54, and A. G. Smith 49.

Coste took six wickets for 18 runs, and Steele four for 17.

On the 18th of July, Toronto visited Ottawa and defeated the home team by 238 to 127.

In August our city was favored with a visit by the Hamilton men. The scores were: Hamilton 47 and 27, Ottawa 65 and 10 for six wickets, Ottawa winning with four wickets to spare. The feature of the match was the grand bowling on both sides. Turton (pro.) took ten wickets for 28 runs, Steele eight for 18. In Ottawa's second innings, when only 10 runs were required to win, six wickets fell before they were obtained, McGiverin bowling magnificently, taking five wickets for 3 runs.

Ottawa defeated Almonte by 94 to 47.

St. Paul's School, Concord, visited Ottawa in 1889. The match was played during wet weather, with the following result: St. Paul's School 91 and 66, Ottawa 24 and 20.

On the 16th of July Ottawa visited Toronto, and were defeated by four wickets. The scores were as follows: Ottawa 85 and 41, Toronto 49 and 79 for six wickets.

On the 17th of the same month Ottawa played Guelph, and won by an innings and 16 runs, Ottawa scoring 115 runs, of which total A. G. Smith made 45, Little 10, Turton 19, V. H. Steele 10, and Taylor 13.

The next place visited was Galt, the eleven of which town made 22 and 33 for five wickets to Ottawa's 125 for one innings. For the winners, Little made 23, Bentley 25, Coste 27, and Taylor 15.

Hamilton defeated Ottawa by 78 to 57.

The season of 1890 was opened by a visit from the Toronto eleven, and the home team was victorious. Toronto made 63 and 45, Ottawa 86 and 91. For the latter, Little made 40 and 9, Coste 10 and 18, Taylor 2 and 23.

For Toronto, J. H. Senkler made 34 and 0, Collins 12 and 1, Goldingham 1 and 14.

MR. W. C. LITTLE

Ottawa

On the 1st of July Montreal played at Rideau, Ottawa winning easily in one innings. The scores were : Ottawa 189, Montreal 33 and 56. The principal scores for Ottawa were made by Little 59, Bouchier 53, Steele 17, Coste 15, and Boville 11.

On the 2nd of July Trinity University, of Toronto, visited Ottawa, and defeated the home team by 99 to 38. Ottawa, in its second attempt, made 96 for seven wickets.

Montreal was visited on the 16th of August, and the eleven from the city by the mountain were again defeated by an innings. Scores : Ottawa 198, Montreal 53 and 64. Ottawa's chief scorers were : Coste 20, Little 30, Bentley 46, Bristowe 22, Ackland 27, and Bouchier 14.

May 23, 1891, saw Toronto again at the Capital, and once more the visitors suffered defeat on the Rideau grounds, this time by 111 to 61. On the 24th the eleven from the R.M.C. of Kingston were taken into camp, the figures being : Ottawa 165, R.M.C. 64 and 92. For the winners, Coste made 46, Bristowe 39, Little 22, Bell 22, and Massey 14. For the losers, Sweny made 17 and 12, Straubenzie 0 and 10, Emery 9 and 34 (not out).

Ottawa suffered defeat at the hands of the Almonte eleven on the 25th of May ; but, in the return match on the 20th of June, the previous victors were defeated by an innings and 44 runs.

Kingston visited the Capital on the 29th of June, and were defeated by 210 runs to 53 and 48. For Ottawa, Little made 16, Coste 31, Warden 34, Bouchier 49, Bristowe 32, Steele 21, and Turton 10.

On the 1st of July, Ottawa sent two elevens to Montreal, one to meet the Montreal eleven, and the other to contend with McGill University. The Montreal eleven was defeated by 105 to 47, Ottawa making 120 in the second innings, and Montreal 31 for seven wickets. For the winners, Warden made 2 and 24, Bristowe 27 and 4, B. T. A. Bell 4 and 19, Turton 15 and 24. For the losers, Mackie made 15 and 11, and Attwood 26. Little took eleven wickets for 46 runs, Turton three for 15, and Bristowe three for 10.

McGill defeated the other eleven by an innings and 38 runs, Steele being the only man to make any stand for Ottawa. His score was 20, and he took eight wickets for 31 runs.

On the 13th of July, Ottawa defeated Kingston by an innings and 72 runs. For the winners, Warden made 67, Bell 21, Bristowe 12. Little took nine wickets for 30 runs, and Turton (pro.) ten for 16.

Montreal made its return visit on the 25th of July, and again suffered defeat. Ottawa made 67 and 52 for 5 wickets. Montreal 51 and 65.

Alexandria was defeated by an innings and 91 runs, Bentley making 38, DeMattos 41, Bristowe 12, Bouchier 14, and Grounds 11.

On the 15th of August, Alexandria visited Ottawa for the return and received a terrible drubbing, the home team making 264 for 6 wickets (innings declared), to Alexandria's 54 in two innings. For Ottawa, Bristowe made 64, Coste 20, Steele 32, Warden 88 (not out), and Ackland 47 (not out).

Toronto was visited on the 27th of August, and the match resulted as follows :

Ottawa 62, Toronto 90 and 105, the latter winning by 28 runs on the first innings. The following day Ottawa defeated Rosedale by 36 runs, Steele making 36, DeMattos 15, Bentley 13, and Bouchier 11.

1892 was the most successful season in the annals of the Ottawa club. The Toronto club again played the opening match of the season, which occupied two days and still was unfinished. Some grand cricket was the result of the match. The scores were: Ottawa 143 and 61 for 6 wickets; Toronto 120 and 155. For the visitors, Jones made 26 and 13, Terry 9 and 71, Winslow 5 and 30, Collins 34 and 0. For Ottawa, Warden made 24 and 18, Little 4 and 19, Palmer 19 and 0, Turton 30 and 8 (not out), and Ackland 30.

On the 27th and 28th of June, Ottawa defeated Toronto, at Toronto, by an innings and 13 runs.

Ottawa made 132, of which total Coste made 46 and Warden 45 (not out). The next match was with Montreal, on the 25th of June; Ottawa making 105 to Montreal's 33. On the 1st of July, McGill visited Ottawa, and suffered defeat by an innings and 40 runs. Ottawa made 146, McGill 50 and 56. For the winners, Bentley made 21, Little 13, Warden 39, Ackland 30, and Turton 19 (not out).

Perhaps the most important event of the year was the visit to Halifax, when Ottawa so well sustained its reputation by defeating "All Halifax" by 16 runs.

On the 5th and 6th of August, Ottawa met Philadelphia, at Halifax, and sustained a defeat by an innings.

The scores were : Philadelphia 246, Ottawa 119 and 89.

For the winners, G. S. Paterson made 89, and E. W. Clarke 64; while, for the losers, Bristowe made 19 and 8, Coste 37 and 2, Warden 22 and 16, Ackland 15 and 40.

On the 15th of August, Kingston defeated Ottawa by 74 to 35. The losing team, however, was not a representative one.

In addition to above, many club matches were played, these games creating almost as much interest as the foreign ones. Ottawa has made great strides in cricket, particularly within the last three or four years, and now holds a leading position among the clubs in the Dominion. The annual match with Toronto is productive of the greatest excitement, there being little difference one way or another in the playing strength of these leading clubs.

CANADIAN CRICKET 1880 TO 1890.

TORONTO v. TRINITY UNIVERSITY

May 24th, 1880.

SCORES.

Toronto	86 and 86
Trinity	32 and 50 for 5 wickets

For Toronto, Totten made 31 and 12, N. Pearson 36 and 2, E. R. Ogden 5 and 38.

For Trinity, Irving made 8 and 12, H. J. Campbell 2 (not out) and 12 (not out).

ST. MARYS v. CHATHAM

June 29th, 1880.

SCORES.

St. Marys	58 and 54
Chatham	94 and 20 for 3 wickets.

For the winners, Little made 20, Bell 15, W. Smith 14 and 0, C. R. Atkinson 10 and 7 (not out), Van Allen 0 and 11 (not out).

For St. Marys, Morphy made 12 and 13, Adams 10 and 12 (not out), Moscrip 12 and 5, Kay 10 (not out) and 0.

MONTREAL v. OTTAWA

This match was played at Ottawa on the 1st of July, 1880, and was remarkable as being the occasion on which Mr. A. Browning, of Montreal, made his great score of 204, until 1894 the record score for Canada. The day was intensely hot, about ninety degrees in the shade, with a glaring sun. Mr. Browning's performance was the more meritorious because all runs were run out. He was missed once at 65 from a high twisting skyer, but afterwards played perfect cricket.

He is the only member of the eleven who took part in this memorable match who still plays for Montreal. Mr. Browning made his first century at Cambridge, Eng., when he was nineteen years old, playing for Clare College against Trinity College in 1879, making 114 runs. He also made 111 in 1881, playing for Burghley Park, Eng., v. The Assyrians. His great strokes were forward drives, on and off, and a hit to square leg. He made few runs behind the wicket. Mr. Browning was selected to play for Canada v. The United States in 1880, but was unable to accept the invitation. Business kept him from cricket for many years, and since taking up the game again his form has not quite warranted a renewal of the invitation.

Badgley played magnificent cricket for his 80 runs, and would most certainly have made his century had he been well. He allowed himself to be run out, as he could no longer stand the terrific heat.

Gough was grandly caught out from a splendid hit to long leg.

Brodie, of Ottawa, had the reputation of being a very deadly bowler, but on the hard, true wicket fell very harmless at the beginning of the match.

Of the Ottawa eleven who played in this match, Messrs. A. Z. Palmer and V. H. Steele are, we believe, the only representatives who still play for their club.

The match was won by Montreal by the fall of the last wicket in the last over, just before time was to be called.

The combined 532 runs represents the largest number of runs made in a one day's match in Canada, between 10.30 a.m. and 6 p.m. All runs were run out.

The following are the scores in full, but the bowling analysis we cannot give :

Mr. Gillespie's batting in this match will be long remembered. Few Canadian cricketers can look back at their career and point to a "century" made in their 19th year, this being the age of Mr. Gillespie when he played in the above match.

Hamilton was so strong at this stage of its cricketing career that the strongest Canadian eleven could easily be picked from its players. The following paragraph from the Toronto Mail illustrates this idea :

MR. A. GILLESPIE

Hamilton

"The Hamilton Times scoffs at the idea of the Toronto and Hamilton clubs amalgamating in their proposed trips to the United States, and says Hamilton can get up a good team for itself. We should rather think it could, after the exhibition of Saturday. The very best of the Toronto players, it would seem, would be a source of weakness to them instead of strength."

ONTARIO MEDICAL CRICKET

The first purely professional Medical eleven in the Province of Ontario was organized in 1885 under the captaincy of Dr. E. Russell Ogden, now of Chicago. The following gentlemen were prominently connected with the organization : Drs. Cameron, Spragge, Pyne, Baines, Ross, Cummings, Jones, and Scadding, of Toronto ; Woolverton, of Hamilton ; Burt, of Paris ; St. Clair, of Aylmer ; Sloan, of Listowel ; Drake and Beemer, of London ; Maclaren, of Delaware ; Bray, of Chatham ; Thompson, of Strathroy ; Mearns and Palmer, of Petrolia ; and Ogden, of Chicago.

The team played five completed matches, losing one and winning four, this result being largely due to the ripe generalship and grand playing of the captain, Dr. Ogden.

The opening match of the tour was played at Paris on Monday, June 22nd, 1885, and the score-book gives the following particulars :

HITTITES v. HIVITES

This remarkable match was played on the 8th of July, 1891, on the grounds of the Toronto Cricket Club, before a very large assembly. The players were all gorgeously arrayed, the Hittites in light blue, and the Hivites in a gay red.

The most picturesque-looking player, according to the Toronto Empire, was, perhaps, Mr. Lyndhurst-Ogden, who wore a tall, vicious-looking straw hat trimmed with an abundance of black and white material, while his athletic form was displayed through a tight-fitting jersey. Judge Street, the captain of the Hivites, was arrayed in a cute little cap, black tie, and gray trousers and shirt. Mr. Geo. T. Alexander wore a Scotch cap, the tails flying out in the light summer wind; he looked very canny. Mr. Beardmore wore a white baseball cap, purchased specially for the occasion.

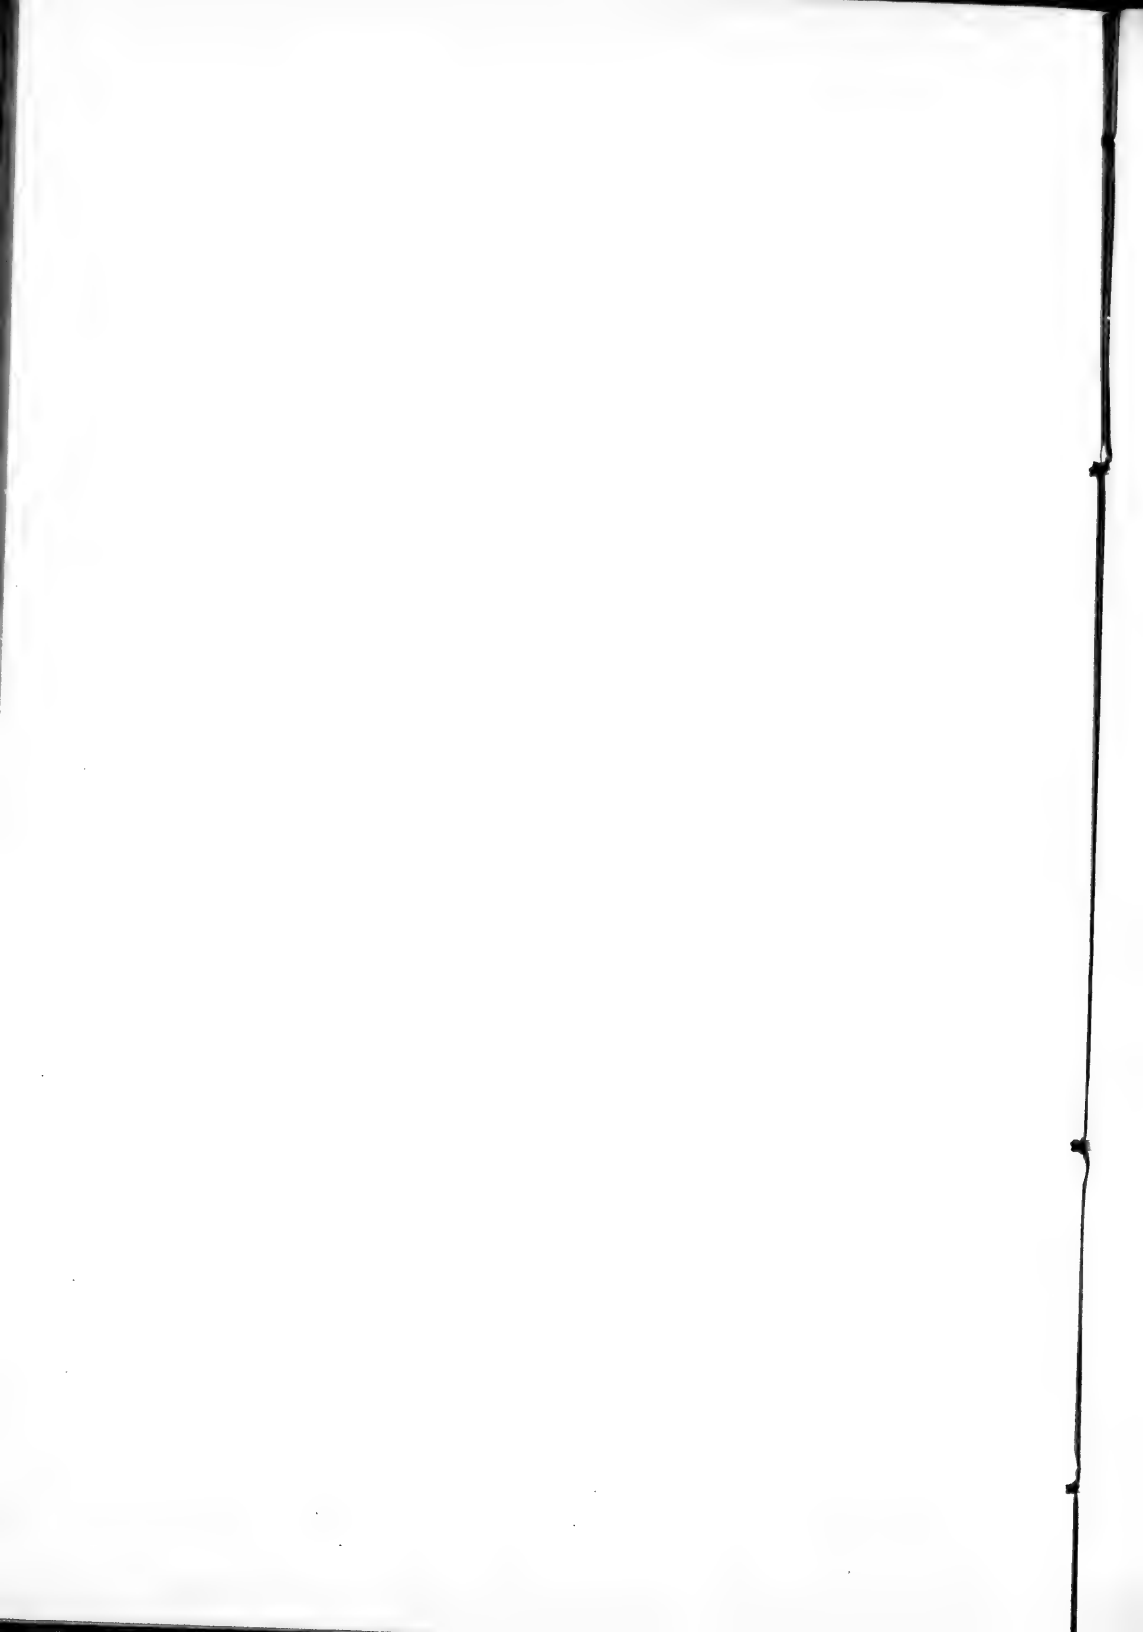

Superintendent Hamilton was satisfied with a soft gray hat. Mr. Gus Foy and Engineer Jennings could find nothing to suit the occasion, so they appeared in their everyday straw hats, and for this breach of courtesy were brought before the committee which had to deal with such insubordination. Collectively, the costumes made a crazy-patch quilt.

The Hittites went first to the bat, and put together 99, of which total Dr. Allen Baines made 56 (not out), in his old-time form. The only other double-figure scorer was A. Foy, with 18 to his credit.

In the second innings of the Hittites, Capt. Lyndhurst-Ogden made 31, A. E. Plummer 31, and Dr. Baines 7 (not out).

The Hivites made 64 and 62, Mr. Sproule making 12 and 3, Mr. Beardmore 3 and 17, Mr. Tait 4 and 10, Judge Street 13 and 4.

Dr. Allan Baines took 15 wickets for 64 runs. Mr. John Wright took 9 for 70.

The umpires were Messrs. Collins and Shanley. By virtue of Rule No. 7, Messrs. Strathy, Ogden, Myles, Hamilton, Plummer, Capreol, Gamble, Creelman, and J. Wright were each fined a bottle of Canadian soda. Rule 8 obliged Messrs. Postlethwaite, Baines, Sproule, Jennings, Beardmore, Boulton, and Tilley to "put up" a bottle of the same intoxicant. For bowling a "daisy cutter," B. Jennings was asked to contribute two bottles. Capt. Ogden tried to intimidate the umpire, and was promptly put down for a bottle of English soda.

For missing catches, Mr. Hamilton was fined once and Mr. Ogden three times.

TORONTO v. LONDON ASYLUM

August 5th, 1892.

This match was remarkable from the fact that it was won by the London Asylum club without the loss of a wicket. Mr. Terry was in grand form, his best hit being off a slow ball, which he cut for five runs, and this on a dead ground.

Mr. Terry made altogether 112 (not out), and was well seconded by that sterling cricketer, Dr. Beemer, who contributed 70 (not out).

For Chatham, Richards made 40, Ireland 29, Wells 27, Bray 24 (not out), Bell 22, Robertson 12, and Nicholls 11.

For the M.A.A., Davies made 41, and L. V. Smith 26.

In the season of 1892 the Rev. F. W. Terry made the unprecedented number (in Canada) of 1,509 runs. Mr. Terry played

No. of Innings.	Times not out.	Highest score.	Total No. of runs.	Average.
51	2	112 (not out)	1509	30.79

We believe this was also at the time the highest number of runs to the credit of any player on this continent in one season.

The season of 1893 commenced early in May. Hamilton, Toronto, East Toronto, Rosedale, and Parkdale each toured through Ontario, the trip of the last-named club being eminently successful, as the eleven won a match every day of the tour. The London and London Asylum clubs also took short trips, and met with a fair share of success.

In the Ottawa Valley district a new association was formed, a series of matches being played by the clubs in that district.

The tie matches played under the auspices of the Ontario Association were again revived, thanks to the energy of the Secretary, K. Hillyard Cameron.

In Manitoba the new association did good work Mr. Bannatyne, the Secretary, and Mr. Baker, the President, are to be congratulated on the result of the first year's effort.

In British Columbia a fairly good season was experienced, Messrs. Campbell, Saunders, and Sewell each making centuries for Vancouver.

Cricket was more popular in St. John, N.B., Mr. H. H. Hansard being this year the strongest representative. He also reached the coveted three figures.

Less cricket than usual was played in Halifax, and, outside of Montreal, the game was not played much in Quebec.

Centuries made in Ontario for once reached double figures, the Rev. F. W. Terry three times performing this clever feat, D. W. Saunders twice, J. M. Laing twice, Dr. Nicholls once, D. L. Thomson once, and P. C. Goldingham once.

Toronto, London Asylum, Hamilton, Ottawa, Chatham, Rosedale, Galt, Guelph, East Toronto, Parkdale, and the other clubs of Ontario, as usual, played a great many matches. We shall at once proceed to note the more important :

MONTREAL v. OTTAWA

May 24th, 1893.

SCORES.

Montreal	96 and 79 for 6 wickets
Ottawa	58 and 43

Southam and Philpotts, for Montreal, both deserved credit for the good cricket they displayed, whilst Boyes and Godwin both bowled exceedingly well, and materially assisted in lowering the colors of the crack eastern club.

. At Portage la Prairie, on the 24th of May, the local club defeated Winnipeg by three wickets.

SCORES.

Winnipeg.	27 and 100
Portage la Prairie	53 and 75 for 7 wickets

For the winners, G. B. Sinfield made 12 (not out) and 15, C. Heath 2 and 22, E. Hay 0 and 10 (not out).

For the losers, F. W. Sprado made 0 and 19, E. C. Pardee 1 and 26, H. Cameron 4 and 12, J. R. Fullerton 2 and 12.

In Winnipeg's first innings, Sinfield took six wickets for 10 runs, and James four for 14.

HAMILTON v. TRINITY UNIVERSITY

On the 27th of May, Toronto University visited Hamilton, the following being the result :

SCORES.
Hamilton	65 and 91
Trinity	143

H. B. Robertson played a capital innings for Trinity, making 56 (not out) by very pretty play.

Winnipeg was defeated for the first time by the West End club by a score of 74 to 73, amidst the greatest excitement.

The West End club also defeated the C.P.R. club by an innings.

TORONTO v. TORONTO UNIVERSITY

On the 7th of June, Toronto played Toronto University, with the following result :

SCORES.
Toronto.....	164 for 3 wickets (innings declared)
Toronto University....	68 for 7 wickets

J. M. Laing made 100 (not out), for Toronto.

HAMILTON v. TORONTO

June 10th, 1893.

SCORES.

TORONTO v. UPPER CANADA COLLEGE

June 10th, 1893.

Upper Canada College defeated Toronto by 108 to 77. For the College, Mr. Terry made 48, Capt. Counsell 20, and F. N. Waldie 21 (not out). For the losers, Goldingham put together 38.

WINNIPEG v. PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE

June 15th, 1888.

SCORES.

Portage la Prairie.....	137
Winnipeg.....	135

For the winners, M. H. Gurney, who went in sixth wicket down, made 59 runs by as good cricket as was ever seen in Winnipeg; A. C. Corner assisted him greatly with his score of 32 (not out). For the losers, H. G. Wilson also played a very fine innings for 52 run out; F. W. Sprado made 20, and H. Cameron 16.

CHATHAM v. DETROIT

June 15th, 1893.

SCORES.

Chatham.....	116
Detroit.....	120

For Chatham, Wells made 30, Nicholls 28, and Atkinson 22.

TORONTO v. TRINITY COLLEGE

June 16th, 1893.

A very exciting match was played on the Toronto ground on the 16th of June between Toronto and Trinity College School, the latter winning by one run. One of the School boys, J. Loscombe, the spare man of the eleven, played for Toronto, and made the top score of the day, 45.

ROSEDALE v. TORONTO

June 17th, 1893.

Rosedale and Toronto played a tie on the 17th of June, each side making 41 runs. Bowbanks' 12 was the highest score of the match.

PARKDALE v. UPPER CANADA COLLEGE

There was too much cricket played in the season of 1894 in Canada to allow space for reference to any but the more important matches.

The Eastern Ontario v. Western Ontario match was revived, and was played at Hamilton on July 13th and 14th. The Western eleven won by 133 runs, mainly owing to the fine stand made by Mr. R. S. Morris, of Hamilton, in each innings his scores of 34 and 84 being conspicuous in the totals of 184 and 207.

Detroit visited Ontario, and defeated East Toronto and Rosedale, but was defeated by Toronto.

Another new match was established by the Ontario Cricket Association, viz., Ontario v. Philadelphia. The first game of the new series was played on 'Varsity lawn, Toronto, on July 27th and 28th, and was won by Ontario. The victory was mainly due to the grand cricket played by Messrs. Goldingham and Terry, and to the excellent bowling of Mr. H. B. McGiverin.

The Philadelphia eleven spent about ten days in Ontario. They defeated Rosedale by ten wickets. A drawn match was played with the Toronto club, who, at the call of time, were 73 runs to the good, and there were only two Philadelphia wickets to fall. Another drawn game was played at Hamilton, the score being, Hamilton 111 and 279 for nine wickets, Philadelphia 233. Mr. F. Martin, playing for Hamilton, made 28 and 83; Mr. E. W. Clark, Jr., for Philadelphia, made 91. The full scores will be found in subsequent pages.

A grand tournament was played at Winnipeg during the latter part of July, the following clubs taking part: Winnipeg, Morden, Dragoons, Gladstone, Portage, Winnipeg carrying everything before them. The tournament was completed by a match with Winnipeg against the Province of Manitoba, the city winning by 64 runs. The batting honors were carried off by Mr. H. G. Wilson, who made 54 against Morden, and 69 (not out) against the Dragoons.

Mr. H. G. Wilson's batting average at the close of the tournament was 95 for three innings, once not out.

Ontario was visited by an eleven from the Maritime Provinces. The visitors defeated Rosedale, played a draw with Toronto, and were defeated by the International eleven by six wickets.

The annual match with the United States, played at Philadelphia, had to be abandoned owing to rain. Canada had made a splendid showing, and the result was a draw, with the chances about equal.

Toronto was favored with a visit from Lord Hawke and his English amateur eleven. Only one match was played in Canada, against an eleven representing the Canadian Association. The match was played on the Rosedale ground, at Toronto, October 3rd and 4th, and resulted in a draw.

The other games played in America were a draw with New York, and victories for the Englishmen at Philadelphia and Boston. Philadelphia was defeated twice.

WINNIPEG v. PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE

July 28th, 1894.

This was the final match of the tournament, and there was only time for one innings each, Winnipeg winning this event, as well as every match they played during the tournament.

SCORES.

Winnipeg 145

Portage la Prairie 81

For the winners, H. G. Wilson made 68, and W. M. Bannatyne 38.

For Portage, J. B. Lloyd made 26, Meggett 15, and Heath 14.

The interest taken in the week's cricket was very great, and the game showed no signs of diminished popularity. It is a fact that the game in Winnipeg and the Northwest is becoming more popular every season. A more enjoyable week was never experienced by the cricketers who took part in the tournament.

Parkdale defeated Toronto for the second time this season on the 4th of August by 72 to 38. Leigh's bowling was the principal factor towards winning the game, his eight wickets for 20 runs being an excellent performance.

Playing for Parkdale against Rosedale on the 29th July, 1894, A. G. Chambers took six wickets with nine balls, four being consecutive.

LORD HAWKE'S VISIT TO CANADA

After playing a draw with New York, and defeating Philadelphia twice, the first time by 131 runs, September 22nd, 23rd, and 24th, and the second by an innings and 40 runs at Manheim, on September 28th and 29th, the eleven playing with Lord Hawke arrived in Toronto on the 2nd of October, after spending the day at Niagara Falls. Play commenced on the 3rd, the Englishmen making the comparatively small score of 147, Hill and Bathurst being the principal contributors to the total. Both men played excellently for their runs. Next day, as soon as the clouds had cleared away, Canada's representatives commenced their first innings. A surprise awaited them, the field was placed as they had never seen it before, viz., only one man on the off side. Hill bowled slow underhand, and, the bowling being easy, tempted our men to hit. Almost every time a ball went up in the air, it as surely dropped into some fielder's willing hands. All were out for 55.

Following on, Canada did much better, as the total of 125 runs for five wickets will readily illustrate. Horstead, of Chatham, aroused much enthusiasm by his timely hitting. Laing, by his careful yet strong play, accumulated 31 (not out). Boyd played pretty cricket for his 23. The Canadian bowling in this match was worthy of much praise, each man doing splendidly, McGiverin having, as usual, much hard luck to contend with.

The following are the scores of the match :

CHAPTER IX.

REMINISCENCES.

BY T. C. PATTESON.

THE request that I should contribute a chance chapter to those complete Canadian memorabilia of the noble game, which another is to collate with patient industry, can only be regarded as misplaced flattery, and a pleasant compliment to an old stager. It is doubtful if I can add anything of interest to the figures and facts which will speak for themselves; but, if I am expected to be a laudator temporis acti, perhaps a wrong selection has been made, for I shall certainly go back on my contemporaries, and at once say that in every department of the game the progress made is enormous, and if not as great here, by comparison with the strides made in the old country, or in Australia and Philadelphia, as it might be, perhaps we can reasonably account for that without admitting any cause for despondency as to the final outcome. Cricket is here to stay. British sports will ever be the recreation of the youth on the northern half of this continent, and the day will never dawn when the descendants of British ancestors will deny their allegiance to Britain's foremost outdoor game.

A man isn't a horse because he is born in a stable, but, perhaps the fact that I was brought up at Hambledon, the birthplace of cricket, may have led Mr. Hall to think that I was born a cricketer. A century ago the Hambledon eleven could have beaten any twenty-two in England. In that Hampshire village, full of sportsmen who ranked with the best in Britain, I played many a match, but long years after it had lost its proud pre-eminence. Has not "the old buffer" been down there and seen Col. Butler's famous cricket screen, gone over the classic ground, and raked it all over for Bailly, and is it not all recorded in the chronicles of that welcome and "evergreen" publication? I took a lad's delight in swiping the half-volleys of opposing rustics from the neighboring villages, and when that was over I diddled them out behind the stumps. It was quite impossible to make them believe that they were not cheated out, when they withdrew to their tents in visible ill-humor. In fact, I should say there is no greater marplot at a country cricket match than a lad fresh from the Eton playing fields or the bumptious undergraduate from Cowley Marsh, who shows off his dexterity at the expense of the yokels. Slow and awkward, and not up to the subtleties of the game, they fall a ready prey to his prowess, and the game is spoiled. At Eton and Oxford I was a tolerably industrious dry-bob, and have a very vivid recollection of the giants of those days. Of Thackeray, the demigod of the light blues, who went up to Lord's, and was no-balled by the M.C.C. umpire the first and second balls of the opening over of the Harrow match, and finished under-hand, I often find myself recalling the picture.

In those days Law XI. (was it?) prevented the arm being at any time raised over the shoulder; but Thackeray—(gay, cheery, brilliant cricketer that you were!)—had learned to shy under his shoulder by some deft turn of the wrist, and one of the old Harrovians had been down to Eton and taken stock of him, with the terrible result aforesaid. The umpire had been told to watch his wrist—that wrist that never stopped a ball tamely, but placed nearly everything for a run—and his verdict was against us. At Merton—for I was a postmaster of Merton before I was the postmaster of Toronto—I played at the same time as the Warden's sons, the invincible trio of Marshams—"C. D." perhaps the prettiest bowler ever seen on a crease, and deadly as he was pretty. He won a lot of matches for his university, and, later, for the Gentlemen.

But to come to my colonial experience. It was in 1858 that I first played on the Toronto ground, and of those who were then playing very few remain. On the occasion of my first visit, George Yonge, the famous Gentleman bowler, was in my company, and we were en route for Chicago and prairie shooting. I don't think any of us colonists of that day were very good. I was told Bradbury had been an excellent bowler; but ill-health assailed him about this time, and he never played in a match in my day. For an all-day, straight bowler who now and then delivered a trimmer, I give the palm to R. B. Blake, who came on a year or two after this. My own place was behind the wickets, and I had a good chance to know. There was more devil in Frank Draper's bowling; in fact, he sent up a perfectly unplayable ball occasionally, but he was not straight enough. "John" Wright was inclined to be underpitched, but was often effective. Down east Sam Harding and McLean were fast and on the spot. "Ben" Parsons had medium pace and some spin, but was too plain; though, if all the fielders had been as good as "Eddy" Spragge, his bowling would have told better. I never kept to a man who more surely tempted batters out of their ground, and to this day I dream of the rapture with which one could sweep down a wicket to his bowling. It was a pleasing relief to Blake's perpetual cannonade, though my own preference as a wicket-keeper was always for fast bowling. No time to blunder; and if a man minds a fast one, he has no business behind the sticks. I was always nervous at slows; but after I had found out the right way to take my stand fast bowling didn't frighten me, and perhaps I may here venture to say what that way was.

As regards off balls, but for the chance of a snick into your hands there is not much to be done in the way of keeping. A man deserves little or no credit for taking long hops and other off balls, which his right hand easily covers. The gallery cannot always see the difference, and credit is very often unworthily bestowed where really nothing is being done. The ball to stop is that which beats the bat between the batsman's right leg and the leg stump. No other ball so often drags a man over the crease, and, if the wicket-keeper can secure one of these without being unsighted, he is always perfectly justified in bringing it forward to move a bail. He often gets a verdict, though it is a very close fit. To master this ball, you should centre your body to that spot; you can still handle all the off balls, and you are right enough for straight and leg balls. The temptation is to face the off, but I am satisfied that this, which was the old way, is wrong. You should never trail your right leg back, but stand on both legs, and face the music, with your head right at the bails. I did so for many years, and was never hurt by a ball bowled. The fielders are far more apt to injure the wicket-keeper by wild throwing, and especially by throwing on the ground what they mean for a long hop to the top of the bails, when they should have shied at the wicket-keeper's chest, considering the distance they were at. There is still surviving an amiable fat man in this city who broke my nose in two places by this sort of error, and this statement is the only revenge I have ever had on him. Another cricket accident I had was so long ago as 1848, when B. W. Waud and I both ran to a skied ball in Eton sixpenny, and in the mêlée I went to ground, the ball dropping into my mouth, and making a gap in my front teeth that neither time nor the dentist has filled. Poor Waud! little thought we then that a quarter of a century later I should be writing to him to come out to Canada. Those who remember him here never saw him at himself. Looking back, I feel sure that the dread disease of the brain that was soon to lay him in St. James' Cemetery had been coming on for years, an insidious enemy, sapping his mental power so gradually that we blamed him for falling into a listless inactivity when he had long ceased to be his own master. At Eton and Oxford, at Lord's and in Yorkshire, B. W. Waud, in the ante-Grace days, was a champion player, and, let me say, as high-principled, straightforward, and manly a man as ever buckled on a pad.

But hark back! I have promised my humble opinion on the difficulties that beset the progress of cricket in Canada. A match means two whole days or more away from business, and it is business of some sort that most of us here are at. Town life is the fate of all that do not plow, and no leisure class exists in our villages. Only two or three comparatively small schools act as feeders to the ranks, always too rapidly depleted by the cares of life, by anno domini, and, perchance, obesity. But, more than all this, the game suffers from lack of patronage. It has not been the luck of this game here to have two or three zealous adherents ready at all times to come forward with money and help. In Australia the rich men took hold of cricket. Look at the result. In Philadelphia any amount of money is provided by the patrons of the game. Here it is starved. Whence shall come the cricket Cræsus who will have the pluck and the go and the ability to fan the flickering flame? Pecuniary inanition. That's the disease. That's the luck. But it is not going to last forever. To tell the truth, cricket in Canada is seldom good enough to attract a paying gate; and herein lies the need awhile for extraneous assistance. Funds must be got, or the game is bound to languish. Few native players have yet arisen who can charm a ring of delighted spectators; and the imported talent is, with a few marked exceptions, mediocre. Again, cricket suffers by comparison with other games played here, which are more readily disposed of, and are better understood than cricket, of which the fine points would as yet be lost upon the majority of any very large attendance that could be brought together to witness a match. Were a dry-bob Hanlan to arise—and why shouldn't he?—all this would be changed, and the crowd would soon be adepts in criticizing the intricacies of the game. The most needed reform is the engagement of an English professional, at once useful and instructive. The bowling of to-day is, of course, straighter than it was in my time. The arm swung at full length can and does bowl a wider ball than the arm describing only half such a circle, and it was a concession that the growing strength of the bat made imperatively necessary.

I was captain of the Canadian elevens which played the Americans in 1859 and 1860, the first match being at the McCaul street grounds, Toronto, the second at Hoboken, N.J. The so-called American eleven in 1859 contained one native-born American, the eldest of the afterwards illustrious Newhall family. He lost his life in the war. Of the ten Englishmen, allowing for one or two exceptions, the less said the better. In 1860 the number of Americans had slightly increased. And now, in 1894, all are native Americans, "bar one"; exactly the opposite of what was the case in 1859.

Canada would gain nothing yet awhile by proposing to play only natives, though she may be gradually voting herself "independent" in this non-political field. Laing is a cricketer of higher calibre than any native of my time, though—perhaps it was fancy—his bowling this last season once or twice reminded me of the Thackeray episode above mentioned. There are others, too, who promise well in the various departments of the game; and where such wonderful improvement has taken place, more may be reasonably looked for. As for batting in the sixties and early seventies, the long scores were almost always made by old country players, of whom Whelan was the hardest hitter. He made more runs, I think, than any other player against Fitzgerald's eleven in 1872. Brilliant meteors from the east flashed across the colonial horizon from time to time, to disappear in collision with some of the snags that beset the immigrant's path. Among these cheap whiskey is entitled to a prominent place. The soldiers arrived in this country in time for the '62 season, but the season of '72 found them all gone. During that decade an immense impetus was given to cricket, as well as to every other British sport that could be followed in this country. The climate of Canada was healthful, the commissariat could be run very cheaply, and, to a man, the officers preferred it to any other quarter; but Mr. Gladstone—though not then in his dotage—must have been told of the numerous marriages made by them in Canada, and, no doubt considering that every Canadian bride made an English old maid, he patriotically recalled the troops, earning the ill-will of all parties excepting some few young native aspirants to the leadership of frivolities and the favors of the young ladies; for, of course, the redcoats put the noses of the local Tom Noddies very much out of joint indeed. It was a soldier whom I saw do one of the quickest and cleverest pieces of fielding ever seen on a cricket field. Mr. Hornby, of the Canadian Rifles, was bowling in a match on the Toronto ground. He was very fast, and followed his ball—half way up, generally. The batsman returned him a real hot 'un, which he fielded clean, and, turning as if on a pivot, threw at the wicket he had bowled from. He hit the centre stump, and the man backing up was out. For chain lightning it beat anything I ever saw. He was a brother of "Monkey," the famous A. N. H. of Lancashire; and the next time I saw him was riding a steeplechase at Tarporley, near Liverpool, his illustrious brother roaring instructions to him, as he passed, in that sweet vernacular of which he is a past master.

By the by, though Mr. Fitzgerald told many good stories of his team in the book that he wrote descriptive of his Canadian tour, "Wickets in the West," he missed a good one of Hornby. We were all at the Union Station checking baggage for the departure of Grace and Co., to London, I think. Hornby took his seat on the edge of a wicker truck, with a few pieces of baggage in it. Along came a truculent porter and told the little man rather roughly to get out of that, whereupon the champion of the light-weights quietly walked behind him, took him by the seat of his trousers and the neck of his garments and hurled him into the basket, took up the shafts, and wheeled the lot to the baggage car. The crestfallen porter took it good-naturedly, but I think scarcely dared do otherwise, with all the eleven capering round the truck. It was a cheap lesson in manners. But here I am all astray again, I began to speak of the fielding. In that department of the game I see no improvement. Spragge at long leg—and in the days of under-the-shoulder bowling that was a very busy part of the field—covered an acre "more or less," making his "place of beginning" anywhere, and, if he got to it, he held it. He tried to get under anything, and make no halting, half-hearted compromises. His catch of Appleby with one hand in '72 was far away the best made in that campaign, and Lord Harris, on the other side, was every bit his equal. C. J. Rykert, of St. Catharines, was an active fielder, and a zealous upholder of the game. Judge Street was as an enthusiast and an excellent long-stop, and C. K. Hope, of Hamilton, ran Spragge pretty close for honors in the outfield. There was, however, besides batting, bowling, and fielding, another department of the game most effectively filled in those days; we had our own speechmaker, and he is still alive in the person of Mr. Alfred Boulton. His speech at

New York in 1860 was one of the best I ever heard anywhere in my life, and Artemus Ward, Mark Twain, or Bret Harte could have found points in it to set beside the best chapters in their books. His speech at Allandale in '72 was also a brilliant contribution to the enjoyment of Colonel Cumberland's picnic to the English twelve. Colonel Cumberland was a magnificent patron of the game. The last match I played in was at the Couchiching ground, and it was at his earnest request. He had a big wager on Toronto against Port Hope with his friend Baron Von Hugel, and I was resuscitated for the occasion. "I am told," said the Colonel, "that if Kirchoffer knows you are behind him he won't get a run." I forget how that was, but I remember taking the hint, and being a little free with the wickets when the Port Hope captain came in. We won the Colonel's bet for him, and he was good enough to say I had contributed to the victory, but "solve senescentem mature sanus equum ne peccet ad extremum ridendus" is a maxim very peculiarly appropriate to wicket-keepers. Talking of that, I saw Box keep wicket when I was a boy for both fast and slow bowling; he did not take one ball in six that passed the batsman. Wenman I did not see, but I believe he was better than Box. Riddell and Nicholson were the best I remember among the Gentlemen, and Mr. Justice Chitty, the hairless champion of both the playing field and the river, was very smart behind the stumps. Tom Lockyer, who came to the front when "The United" broke off from the "All England," was the first really active man behind the stumps. He learned the art of catching from loading brick wagons at the kiln. Pooley was the next. Martingell was the first coach we ever had at Eton, and he was a beautiful bowler. The first upper club match I remember at Eton was in '47, and it was M.C.C. v. Eton College. Lillywhite and Hillyer bowled in high black hats and braces, but Sir Frederick Bathurst wore a cap, then regarded by men like Rogers, Kynaston, and Herbert Jenner as a very "fast" article of attire. My eye, what a pace Sir Frederick used to put on! but I remember his being pretty well stuck up by Norman, then a lad of eighteen, and a brother of the clergyman of that name now at Montreal. I have seen Alfred Mynn, a Triton among the minnows, and he bowled fast, but Fellowes was the fastest I remember, and yet I once saw him hit over his own head for six by one of the Marshams. Tarrant, Jackson, and Willsher, none of them bowled as fast as Fellowes, and pads were the exception, not the rule, mind, in those days. There were lots of slow bowlers, too, Rev. E. T. Drake being among the best of them. And, of course, among the professionals, old Clarke was facile princeps with his "tices" and a good twist from the leg. But the most marvellous exhibition of plain lobs ever seen in the world was Rose's triumphant destruction of Canadian wickets in '72. Of twist or break he was entirely destitute. He was simply an old-fashioned slow underhand bowler, and see what he did! I think he got more wickets than Appleby, who was among the best gentlemen bowlers of his day. One reason for freer run-getting these days is the saving of labor effected by boundary hits. As a rule, I think the allowance far too liberal, while I admit having often seen good men run out very unfairly in old days, when the ball was lost sight of among the crowd, or under the seats.

Bad cricket is an awfully slow game to look at; but I have seen it many a time redeemed by the joviality of the players, and by their physical unfitness for the game. I was thinking of country cricket in England, in which pipes and ale and men of fifteen stone played a principal part; but here, too, I recollect a match at Oakville which boasted of all the rollicking features of one on the old village green. The ground was execrable, the hospitality unstinted, and when the ball did come within reach how we did smite it! A well-known humorist of the cricket field in those days was Wooten, the brawny host of Caer-Howell, and the interchange of chaff between him and J. O. Heward was often of the raciest. G. A. Barber, too, brought a cheery laugh into the game, as well as a highly trained and very sensitive knowledge of it, and he more than anybody taught the young idea how to shoot. Mr. Ogden's recent match between the Hivites and Hittites was but a travesty of the old Chelsea pensioners' one thousand guineas game between the one-legged and the one-armed, in which the one-legged lot had it all their own way. Among the funny incidents of cricket should be remembered the close of the match at Hamilton, in '72, against Fitzgerald's team. It was positively finished in the dark, and the fun ran high for half an hour or so.

The name of many a good man and true is not to be found in this brief and hasty retrospect, for space forbids. It is not even "a peerage" to Wm. Hall's "Post Office Directory," for twenty names of the best now occur to me, only conspicuous by their absence. But my say is "over," and, only bespeaking pardon for its imperfections, I make way for my successor.

CHAPTER X.

INTERNATIONAL MATCHES FROM 1844 TO 1894: UNITED STATES V. CANADA.

THIS great annual match was played for the first time in 1844. The elevens taking part were selected from the St. George's Club, of New York, and the Toronto Club, of Canada. The match was played at New York, for a stake of $1,000, and was won by the visitors.

The match had its real origin in a visit of the St. George's Club to Toronto in 1840, when the Canadians were surprised, while practising one day, at the information that the New York eleven had landed in Toronto, expecting to play a match which had been arranged some time before by an individual representing himself as a prominent member of the Toronto Cricket Club. As the account of the game arranged after the arrival of the visitors goes fully into the particulars of this peculiar event, it will not be necessary to further enlarge on the affair here, other than to say that the first match between these two strong clubs was won by the St. George eleven. The invaders were principally Englishmen, as were most of the cricketers playing at that time in the United States.

Not until some years later did native Americans take hold of the game, but when the time arrived for them to do so it was done in no half-hearted manner. The cricketing career of the Newhalls and a host of others, whose names are known to almost every cricketer on the continent, proves beyond a doubt the determination with which American cricketers conquered the difficulties of the new game (to them).

At the present time Mr. Geo. S. Patterson, the best all-round player in America, is helping cricket in Philadelphia by an example worthy the emulation of any cricketer. He is patient and respectful to his opponents when necessary, but punishes everything that is not up to the mark with a severity fully deserved. His style is worth studying by all who are anxious to play effectively, and his form, taken altogether, is as good as can be seen on this continent.

DR. E. RUSSELL OGDEN

Canada has had many good men, probably the foremost native-born player being Dr. E. R. Ogden, though others have closely rivalled him for the premier position. The Rev. T. D. Phillippo, as an all-round player, has done great work for Canadian cricket, and his name will always be one of the foremost in Canadian cricket history. It would, however, be most unfair to make comparisons here, as any analysis of the abilities of players would occupy too much space.

The matches played between the two countries now number 26, of which the United States have won 16, Canada 8, and two were drawn. The 1846 match is called a draw in the United States record, but it was really lost to Canada, as our eleven refused to play, after a dispute in which they were entirely in the wrong, the umpires rightly awarding the match to the United States team. After this dispute no matches were played until 1853, from which date another long interval occurred, 1860 being the next year to see the great match. Between 1860 and 1879 only one match was played, viz., 1865. From 1879 to the present time, with one or two exceptions, the match has been played annually.

The following are the scores and accounts of the international series:

CANADA v. UNITED STATES

New York, September 24th and 25th, 1844.

The first match of the international series between the above countries took place at New York, on the grounds of the St. George's Club, near Bloomingdale Road, on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 24th and 25th, 1844, and a remarkable feature of the game was that it was played for $1,000 a side. Great interest was taken in the game both in Canada and the United States. The Toronto Patriot of September 24th, 1844, has a paragraph intended as a send-off to the Canadian team, which reads as follows:

"A spirited eleven of the Toronto club started on Saturday night for New York to accept the challenge of the club of that city for one thousand dollars. The match was to come off to-day. We wish the Torontowegians every success." The same paper on October 1st, 1844, has a paragraph: "Cricket —Well done, the spirited eleven of Toronto cricketers! They have defeated the St. George's Club of New York."

The following description of the match is from the New York Herald :

• "Grand cricket match for one thousand dollars between the players of Canada and the St. George's Club, of this city.

"FIRST DAY—TUESDAY.

"This grand match, which has excited for some time past considerable notice of the residents of both sides of the St. Lawrence, particularly the natives of the old country, was announced to commence yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. About the hour mentioned considerable numbers were assembled, and the preliminaries were entered into between the contending parties most satisfactorily. It was agreed upon that the running should continue, no matter where the ball was driven, until the judges were satisfied it was a lost ball. Mr. H. Russell, of Brooklyn, was elected umpire or judge on behalf of the St. George's Club, and Mr. Waller on behalf of the Canadians. They then proceeded to toss for the innings, which was won by the St. George's Club, who called upon the Canadians to go in. This they did in evident good spirits, and with every confidence. The betting at the commencement was even, the Canadians, if anything, having the call, and some heavy bets were made. It was said that not less than one hundred thousand dollars were depending on the result. About twenty minutes before 12 o'clock play commenced, Mr. Groom starting the bowling, and at first his excellent left-handed deliveries appeared somewhat to nonplus Messrs. Winckworth and Wilson, the latter only living a short time under it. The fielding at first was rather indifferent, but improved. Mr. Birch's batting was much admired, although his stay was brief. He was capitally caught by Mr. Bage. Mr. Symes' fielding was as good as ever, and elicited considerable approbation. Mr. Winckworth's play was very cautious and steady; he appeared determined not to give a chance away.

"Mr. Tinson as wicket-keeper was most excellent. Mr. French made the first four-hit of the day amid much applause.

Mr. Maddock's play was cool, cautious, and steady, and he bore his bat in triumph off the field. Mr. Dudson proved himself an excellent long-stop throughout the innings, which terminated about 2 o'clock.

"About 3 o'clock the St. George's Club went in, in as good spirits as their opponents, many of their admirers backing them at even, notwithstanding the array of figures against them. Mr. Winckworth bowled the first ball to Mr. Turner, being supported at the other wicket by Mr. Ticknor. Out of the first twelve balls received they made 8 runs. Mr. Turner's play was beautiful and steady. Mr. Winckworth's bowling was grand, he played dead at the wicket with great force. The play so far was much admired by all. Mr. Ticknor's play was much admired, though he was not very successful in scoring. Mr. Wright was declared out by one of the judges, the ball striking his knee, from which it bounded and was caught. Mr. J. Ticknor was declared out, his leg before wicket. Mr. Winckworth was struck in the face severely, but, true cricketer-like, did not give up his bowling. Mr. Tinson remained about an hour and a quarter and was very cautious, making the greatest number of runs on his side. When Mr. Groom went in, expectation was great that he would in some degree retrieve the leeway of his party; but, alas! it was only expectation, as he was caught without making a single run. At the hour for the termination of the day's proceedings Messrs. Wild and Bage were in, the former having made eight runs and the latter none, with one wicket to go down. Never was such bowling and fielding displayed as in this innings. It was truly admirable, almost indescribable, for excellence. Mr. Freeling, in particular, distinguished himself; we never saw a man display so much agility; he was like a harlequin, here, there, and everywhere when required; all the others were well up, which will account for the limited result. The bowling of Mr. Winckworth astonished all who had to contend against it, it was truly grand and excellent.

"There were on the ground no less than 5,000 persons from all parts of Canada and the Union. At the close of the day odds were 5 to 4 on Canada, which was taken to some extent; in town, afterwards, it was offered with few takers, 6 to 4 generally being required.

“ SECOND DAY.

“ The morning was dull, the weather cold, and a piercing wind blowing. Some delay was occasioned by the absence of the umpires. There was, as previously stated, 5 to 4 offered on the Canadians, with but few takers, though there were some few on the ground of whom it might be said :

‘ Most fools, until by losing rendered sager,
Back their opinions by a wager,’ who were going it even, but they were the exceptions to the rule.

“ Messrs. Wild and Bage resumed their play, but disappointed the general expectation, the former only adding two runs before being bowled by Winckworth, and Mr. Bage one, carrying his bat. This threw a damper on the St. George people, but they consoled themselves with the old saying, ‘ Worse luck now, better by and by.’

“ The score of the Canadians in their second innings speaks for itself, and was much smaller than was expected, the betting in consequence changing around in St. George’s favor.

“ Messrs. Turner and Symes went in first on behalf of St. George for their second innings, and well they maintained their reputation as cricketers. Mr. Turner was in near upon an hour and a half, defying some of the best and most beautiful bowling of Winckworth, both he and Symes playing most cautiously. When they had played about forty minutes, Symes was bowled out by Sharpe.

“ The wicket-keeping of Phillpotts was grand; we don’t think it was ever surpassed. The other players did not add largely to the score, which closed at 58. Mr. Wheatcroft being absent, only ten men went in. The laws of the game were strictly enforced by the Canadians and prevented any person taking the bat in place of the absentee, although they had previously allowed other persons to take the field on behalf of those who were absent. By some unaccountable means or other, Mr. Wheatcroft did not make his appearance until twenty minutes after play was over. This certainly made a great difference to the score of the St. George's Club, but, had he been present, under no circumstances was it likely that he could have altered the result. The game throughout was one of the most spirited games of cricket ever played in this country or in Canada, and was very largely attended both days.

The United States eleven on this occasion, for the first time, included representatives from Philadelphia.

In the second innings of Canada, when Wilgress and Helliwell were batting, a dispute growing out of the catch by which Helliwell was out put an end to the game. All attempts at reconciliation failed, and the match was given up.

Helliwell wilfully obstructed Dudson, who caught him out, thinking he had a right to do so, and Dudson, in the excitement of the moment, threw the ball at Helliwell.

The following extract, in reference to this match, is taken from Bell's Life, London, England, October 14th, 1846:

"In the match between the élite of the two clubs of the United States—St. George's of New York and the Union of Philadelphia—and the two of Canada—those of Montreal and Toronto—which was commenced on the ground of the St. George's Club, at the Red House, Hæ' 1, ended in a dispute, and on the circumstances attending which we have been requested to give our opinion. We have read the affidavits of the party; and, as there appears to be a faithful report in the New York Mercury, we shall copy it:

"Samuel Dudson, of Philadelphia, was put on to bowl at Groom's end. He bowled a ball at Helliwell, which, in cricketer's phraseology, beat him, so he hit up high in the air back towards the bowler. Mr. Helliwell, seeing the ball would be caught, ran with the point of his bat, purposely, against the catcher, and in doing so he hurt the catcher, but did not prevent the catch being made.

“To run against him he went two feet out of his way, and he admitted that he ran against him purposely, under a mistaken notion that the laws of the game allowed him to do so. But the umpire of the Canadians said that had he prevented the catch, he should have given Mr. Helliwell out. Dudson fell with pain, and lay on the ground for a moment, but presently started up and ran at Helliwell, who was returning to the tent. Some of the St. George players ran between them and seized Dudson, but he, having the ball in his hand, flung it at Helliwell. The ball struck the ground and then bounded on the fleshy part of his thigh, not at all hurting him. Dudson was then coerced into quietude, and Mr. Helliwell returned to the tent. In a little while the Canadian umpire was called off the ground, and it was stated that the play would not go on (at this time the odds were 5 to 1 in favor of the St. George and Union clubs).

“Steps were then taken by the umpire of the last-named clubs to claim the game. The men took their places, “play” was called, the two minutes allowed by the laws elapsed, and play was called again, but the Canadians refused to proceed with the match, and the opponents claimed the game. Some of the Canadians paid their bets under protest.’

“Dudson, in his affidavit, says that he made what he considered an ample apology to the other players, through a friend, but to no purpose.

“We had a letter on the subject the week before last, to which we replied in our answers to correspondents, to the effect that the Canadians forfeited the game, and we are the more confirmed in that opinion by the statements forwarded to us. Mr. Helliwell was the first aggressor, and no mean one either, by running out of his way and thrusting the bowler down with his bat, hurting him, as it has been sworn to, considerably.

“The plea that he did imagine such a proceeding was not against the law is no excuse, and we are surprised that he was not more acquainted with the rules of the game.

"The bowler was also to blame, but not equally so, and, he having tendered an apology for an act committed in the heat of the moment, the Canadians were, we may say, bound to accept it under the circumstances. The law as regards betting states 'that bets are not payable unless the match be played out or given up,' and the Canadians' refusing to proceed with the game is tantamount to giving it up, and, therefore, however hard the case of the 'speculators' may be, bets must be paid accordingly."

The umpires were : Mr. Barber, of the Toronto Herald, and Mr. Samuel Nicholls. The scorers were : Mr. E. J. Tryon, of Hoboken, and Mr. Farmer, of the British Army.

The Canadians were dined at Delmonico's on the evening of the day of their defeat, and there that same good feeling that had been shown throughout the contest was enlivened and made glorious by good speeches, songs, etc. Among the songs was an extemporized one by Mr. Charles Walcott, the comedian, one of the few guests of the occasion, which he sang amid roars of laughter and applause. Here it is :

" I'll sing you a new song, just spun out of a pate
That's neither very young nor old, and, as for its 'estate,'
For sport it can't boast anything extr'ord'nary of late,
At least concerning hairs its mighty slim at any rate,
Is the head of this here gentleman, asked here with you to dine.

Now you must know this song would show the strange vicissitudes
Which happened in the cricket match just ended, which includes
The 'wides' and 'byes' and 'leg byes,' which in cricketing intrudes (Beg your pardon for the grammar, which, of course, don't matter so long as you know to what I here alludes);
So bear with this here gentleman, asked here with you to dine.

'Twas very clear to me, from the first moment that I read
The match was to come off that the Canadians would come on, or some others in their stead ;
And, says I, I'll bet a cow (for I'm not easily misled),
By the time that the game's over, either the Canadians will be the winners, or the New Yorkers will be ahead,
Says this here very gentleman, asked here with you to dine.

It struck me the arrangements could be hardly called 'the thing';
For Parsons were the last folk I thought cricketers would bring ;
But Parsons came, and Parsons played, as sure as now I sing,
And, to make things even, as the New Yorkers had a '(W)right' to choose the ground, the Canadians had an equal claim to 'Pick-a-ring,'
And so thought this here gentleman, asked here with you to dine.

The play was p'rhaps the finest thing that ever was beheld,
And, as soon as one gentleman made two, the people shouted ; but when another made four, they literally yelled !
And every now and then, they rushed off to take a drink and couldn't be withheld,
So they left the 'Marsh' (or rather the field) continually to fill tumblers, or, for aught I know, perhaps 'Phillpotts' impelled,
As would have done this gentleman, asked here with you to dine.

Well, just as I expected, so I've learnt since I came here ;
 One side beat the other, which was pretty sure to happen, if one looked 'Sharpe' for a chance when he fancied he could see one appear ('Napier').
 But as you were present and I was not, you must know more about it than I do,
 that's quite clear,
 And any one not as blind as a bat can see you'll very soon wish me at Hoboken, if I sit here and barol all night ;
 So I may as well wind up with many thanks for the good cheer enjoyed by this here gentleman, asked here with you to dine. "

One of the Toronto papers mentions a pleasant incident which occurred at the close of the game. A beautiful American ensign, which had been brought from New York by the United States players, was lowered when the game had become decided. Captain Denne immediately ordered the British flag on their side to be lowered, and would not hoist it again until the American ensign had been rehoisted and saluted by the bands of the garrison.

The New York Clipper, in an account of this match, among other things, said that "whatever may be the cricketing scores of these noble games their general results are eminently social and manly, exhilarating and elevating. As a charmingly elegant lady writer has eloquently observed: 'What a glorious sensation it is to be five hours together winning—winning—winning! always feeling as a whist player feels when he takes up four honors or seven tricks! Who would think that a little bit of leather and two pieces of wood had such a delightful and delighting power?'"

Mr. Robinson, Mayor of Toronto, umpired for Canada.

Capt. Lansada, who played in this match, was said to have been one of the foremost to enter the "Redan" in the Crimean war, June 18th, 1853.

The New York Clipper of September 21st, 1862, says : " The last regular contest between the selected elevens of ' All United States ' and ' All Canada ' was played August 6th and 7th, 1860, at Hoboken, and not August 29th and 30th, 1860, at Montreal, since which time no regular match of the annual international series has been played. In the fall of 1860, August 29th and 30th, the St. George club visited Montreal with a selected team of that club, together with some players from Philadelphia, and there engaged in a contest with an eleven of Canada, chosen by the Montreal club. The return game of this match was to have been played on October 1st and 2nd, 1861, but was indefinitely postponed. This season, too, it was likely to be deferred, but finally it was arranged to send an eleven selected from the best players attached to the various regiments in Canada. Seven of the St. George club, three of New York, and one of Philadelphia played for the United States, the St. George club selecting the team. George Wright was substituted for Hammond, of New York."

The scores of this match appear elsewhere in this book. The Clipper, March 9th, 1861, reviewing the season of 1860, says : " The contest played at Montreal between the St. George and Philadelphia clubs, on the one hand, and a weak team made up from two or three of the Canadian clubs, on the other, most of the best Canadian players being absent therefrom, was not worthy the importance some parties attached to it."

The Clipper of September 8th again refers to " the so-called match between the United States and Canada," and says : " Patteson, of Toronto, was the only one not a member of the Montreal club playing for Canada."

Montreal made 42 and 79, St. George 165, of which Brett made 59 and Harry Wright 21.

"The absence of Captains Webber Smith, King, and Earl, and Messrs. J. U. Smith, Ravenhill, and Pickering, weakened the Montreal club so much that they could hardly present anything but a second eleven."

UNITED STATES v. CANADA

Played at Toronto, August 29th, 1865.

The United States only played ten men, and won the match by one wicket.

George Wright tells a good story in connection with this match. We give it in his own words. "In the match, United States v. Canada, in 1865, the umpire for Canada was talking to Tom Senior, one of the United States team, and remarked to him (Senior) that if an appeal had been made for a catch at the wicket (on the last ball of the over then played) he would have given the Canadian batsman out. Judge of the Canadian umpire's surprise and mortification at Senior taking a prompt and questionable advantage of this private and confidential conversation, and at once asking, 'How's that?' The only thing the poor umpire could do was to say 'not out,' and so Senior gained nothing by his sharp practice."

This paragraph was supplied us, along with much other information, by Mr. A. H. Wright, of the New York Clipper.

CHAPTER XI.

UPPER CANADA COLLEGE v. THE PROVINCE

IN 1847 the ex-pupils of Upper Canada College challenged the Province. "The Canadian Cricketer's Guide," published in 1858, says that "nine matches have since been played. The only year which did not witness this exciting contest was 1854; the prevalence of cholera and the exigencies of the States match at Toronto that summer uniting to mar the interest usually taken in smaller events, and crushing out most of them pro tem. Of the ten games already played, U.C.C. won the first seven and lost the next two. That of last season was unfortunately not terminated, but the first innings was decidedly in favor of the Collegians, as the subjoined score will show":

LETTER FROM MR. FITZGERALD TO MR. T. C. PATTESON, ESQ.

SIR,—I cannot leave your Dominion without expressing to yourself, as the originator and manager of our expedition, and through you to the people of Ontario and Quebec, my grateful sense of the reception which has been given to my team of English amateur cricketers.

We came to your shores as strangers, we have been welcomed as friends, we leave your Dominion as if we were leaving a second home.

I am confident that our expedition will establish a more enduring result than that of simply promoting our national game.

Cricket was the primary object of our visit, and if we have helped to encourage a love of the game, and to promote a general cause of emulation amongst your young athletes, our efforts in the field would not have been made in vain. I look beyond the cricket field and its generous influence; I cannot forget that we have been received on more social and intimate terms than a mere body of cricketers had a right to expect. Friendly as our relations have been with your cricketers of Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, London, and Hamilton, they are secondary, in my estimation, to the loyalty and love for our common country which, on many occasions, have prompted the backwoodsman, mechanic or artisan, to grasp our hands, and to welcome us as brothers.

Our visit has been hurried, and our acquaintance with the vast resources of the Dominion is necessarily limited, but we have seen enough to justify a high opinion of Canada and Canadians, and we shall be failing in our duty if we do not share with others, more competent than ourselves, in dispelling many existing misconceptions and prejudices at home. We can certainly report that, if our eyes and ears do not misjudge us, one common interest unites Canada and England, that a Canadian is American only by the intervention of a vast ocean, and that Englishmen have only to see the country and its people to learn its value and their attachment to British institutions.

To all with whom we have had relations, to our hosts and hostesses, to our brother cricketers, to the gentlemen of the press, who have so ably reported our progress, and to the Dominion generally, I beg most gratefully to return the thanks of the English twelve.

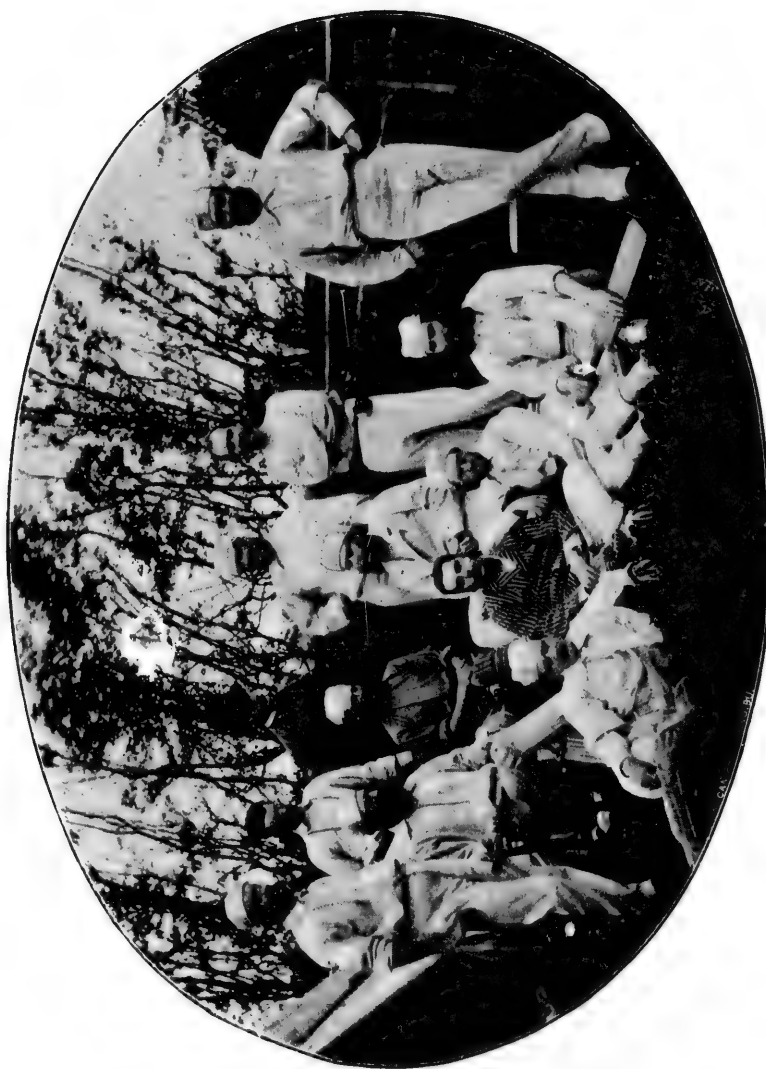

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

R. A. FITZGERALD,
Captain of the English Cricketers.

RETURN OF THE HALIFAX TOURNAMENT OF 1874

At Philadelphia, September 13th, 14th, and 15th, 1875.

The return match of the Halifax tournament of 1874 was played in Philadelphia on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, the 13th, 14th, and 15th of September, 1875. The Rev. T. D. Phillipps' account of the match says that, instead of arriving at Philadelphia early on Sunday, the 12th, they did not reach there until nearly noon of the day of the match, having been delayed eighteen hours at a way station in Pennsylvania. Fatigued with travelling since midnight, the Canadians were totally unfit for play; and, to pave the way for a simple solution of the difficulty, Captain Wallace kindly offered to go on with the England v. America match, and thus afford the Canadians an opportunity for needed rest. We should be slow to charge any cricketer with a desire to overreach an opponent; every precept of the game inculcates the lesson of fair play; but certainly the fact that the Philadelphians insisted on adhering to the order of the programme placed the Canadian eleven at a great disadvantage, and must be conceded to mitigate somewhat the mortification of their subsequent defeat.

Philadelphia won the match by 87 runs.

The second match of the series was between the British Officers v. Canada, on September 15th, 16th, 17th, and 18th. An account of this match says that the Canadian fielding was the best of the tournament. Prizes were given for scores of 50, and Mr. Whelan, probably the strongest all-round player in Canada, so says the account, captured one.

The following are the scores :

CHAPTER XVI.

DAFT'S ENGLISH ELEVEN IN CANADA, 1879.

AN ACCOUNT OF THE TRIP

By MR. E. BROWNE, Assistant Secretary of Notts County.

ON the 28th of August, 1879, the following party sailed from Liverpool, England, for Canada, the object of the journey being two or three weeks' cricket in the colony, and the republic of the United States:

Capt. R. Daft: To have seen Richard Daft an hour or two at the wickets against first-class bowling is to have witnessed the most graceful and finished batting of this generation, and although time is telling on him, and we miss the wonderful return throw he used to make from long leg, he is yet a central figure in the cricket world, and much of his play in Canada and the United States was quite up to his old form. He, moreover, will always be remembered for having introduced into the cricket field a certain elevating tone. Next in point of interest comes Alfred Shaw, the greatest slow bowler in the world, his command of the ball being extraordinary. Then comes another Nottingham player of great reputation, viz., Wm. Oscroft, well known throughout the country as the finest hitter we have. John Selby, a crack bat and a smart fielder—in fact, a clever little fellow altogether; next, Arthur Shrewsbury, the long-headed and shrewd, a most careful and elegant bat; Fred Morley, the fast left-hand bowler, whose conduct was as straight as his bowling; Mr. Barnes, one of the very best all-round players in Nottinghamshire.

These above mentioned are all from Notts. Next come the representatives of Yorkshire:

First, George Pinder, the renowned wicket-keeper; Ephraim Lockwood, celebrated for his strong defence and fine off hitting;

T. Emmett, the most energetic and untiring cricketer I have ever seen, and the highly respected captain of the Yorkshire eleven; W. Bates, the youngest man on the team, a fine, frank young fellow, and perhaps the best slow bowler, after Shaw, at present amongst us; last, but not least, George Ulyett, a splendid athlete, termed by a Canadian paper "the handsome man of the team," and a jovial companion and kind-hearted friend.

The laymen were Mr. Councillor J. P. Ford, of Nottingham, a most genial and well-informed man, who was, during the whole journey, our guide, philosopher, and friend. Lastly, the writer of this article, and, in his opinion, the hardest-worked member of the party, who in his capacity as secretary and correspondent, as already mentioned, found his time entirely taken up.

After a voyage of the ordinary description, our party arrived at Quebec on Sunday morning.

It was eleven o'clock when we arrived at Montreal, where our quarters were at the Windsor Hotel, one of the most spacious in North America. They take you to bed on a steam hoist in these places, and feed you to repletion. It had been arranged that we should play a match at Montreal after visiting Toronto, but we found that the game of lacrosse was the only sport the people (mostly French) cared about, and that cricket had only few supporters. It was, therefore, thought better not to play here, especially as we must have travelled 300 miles for the purpose.

The journey from Montreal to Toronto was a slow and wearisome one. As we passed along, however, and got into Western Canada, we caught glimpses of the most magnificent scenery, whilst the appearance of the country very much resembled England. The railway at several points came into contact with the great River St. Lawrence, and at intervals we would catch a glimpse of a waterfall, then a thickly wooded island in the centre of the stream, then a farmhouse with beds of bright red flowers in front, whilst a few minutes afterwards we might find ourselves plunged into the heart of a deep forest, where the foliage had begun to assume autumnal colors, red and yellow of various hues.

On arriving at Toronto, the capital of Western Canada, we found the city in a state of bustle and excitement in consequence of the Princess Louise and the Governor-General being on a visit there. Some of us in the old country boast of our loyalty, but our attachment to the throne and the institutions of the country is a very mild thing compared with the Canadian exuberance of feeling. The city of Toronto was ablaze with illuminations, and during the whole of the time we stayed there the place was given up to holiday-making, whilst the addresses to the Marquis of Lorne received from public bodies and the replies he made filled the newspapers every morning, and led the Marquis to say that, instead of Governor-General, he ought to be called the Advertiser-General of the Dominion. Both the Marquis and the Princess visited the cricket ground during our matches, and the captain was sent for from the field to be presented.

With respect to our cricket performances at Toronto, we played three matches, the first against twenty-two native Canadians, the second against twenty-two English residents, and the third against twenty-two of Ontario. In all these matches the twenty-twos were woefully beaten. Alfred Shaw was a perfect terror to them. Several of the innings were mere processions of batsmen with grand reputations attached to their names on the programme walking out to the wicket, taking a careful guard, surveying the weak places in the field, making a grand swipe at what they thought was the ball, but what was really thin air, the ball having cunningly broken in, perhaps six inches, and then retiring, looking foolish. One of these gentlemen, a member of the Provincial Parliament, was so much disgusted that he did what I have seen done in village matches at home, knocked down the stumps with his bat, and ran off the field as fast as his legs could carry him.

They took their thrashing very well, however, and we met with the utmost hospitality.

From Toronto we went on about thirty miles farther west, to a very pretty city called Hamilton, also on the banks of Lake Ontario.

Looking back at the places we visited, this was the pleasantest of all. There was a strong cricket club, and our whole party was made much of. The cricket ground was very prettily situated, with a nice pavilion and a telegraph station on the ground. On the 18th of September we commenced a match against seventeen of the club, which ended in another easy victory. The wicket was a very rough one, and Ulyett, who played a grand innings for 46, declared that he had as many bruises on his body as runs in the score book.

We were really sorry to leave our pleasant quarters at the Royal, but, being due in London the following Monday, we left our hospitable friends on Sunday, the 22nd, and an hour's ride brought us to the city of London. I was rather curious to see a second London, and it was amusing to find that this miniature metropolis has its river Thames, its Pall Mall, Picadilly, and, also, Hyde Park. We met here several Nottingham people—in fact, Notts people seemed to be everywhere along our tour.

The twenty-two of London fared very badly indeed, the whole side being out in their second innings under the hour. Having no further matches in Canada, we proceeded to the United States.

On the 3rd of November we arrived once more in Liverpool, and, after luncheon at the Angel Hotel, we broke up and went to our respective homes, glad to get back to dear old England, but cherishing the kindest recollections of friends across the Atlantic, and of their unbounded hospitality.

The scores of the matches played in Canada here follow :

CHAPTER XVIII.

EARLY CRICKET AT UPPER CANADA COLLEGE.

By the REV. T. D. PHILLIPPS.

IN the days before the opening of Upper Canada College and Royal Grammar School, January, 1829, cricket was not unknown in Little York, for wherever the British flag has floated over a British fortress stumps have been set up—be it in Canada, on the burning sands of Africa, or on “India’s coral strand.” In 1825, George Anthony Barber was probably the first civilian to promote zealously the introduction of the game. As his name and his fame will be dwelt upon later on, I linger here but long enough to affirm that his “right there is none to dispute” when crowned “Father of cricket in Canada.” He was ably seconded by Rev. Wm. Boulton, B.A. (Queen’s, Oxford), both being masters at Upper Canada College. They were joined in 1834 by F. W. Barron (in my days Principal), a man who was known so well on many a sportive field that it is no exaggeration to say of him, “Nihil quod tetigit non ornavit,” for he was facile princeps as a wielder of the cane or the cue; an adept in the right use of the tiller or the tongue; as proficient in the realm of music as on the cricket field. Nor did we boys think the less of him because tradition said that in more than one fight he had come out victorious “’gainst fearful odds,” though the only arms he deemed to use were those supplied him by Nature. It was then that the Toronto Cricket Club was formed. Next year on the first Saturday in August, a match was played with Guelph, but at Hamilton, as neutral ground, the latter winning by ten wickets, scoring 102 and 7 to Toronto’s 74 and 34. Of the twenty-two men engaged I have met fifteen. At the good old-fashioned dinner in the evening, Mr. (afterwards Sir) Allan Napier McNab presided. In the return match, on the same ground, on September 24th of that year, Toronto again lost by a total of 112 to Guelph's 186. Among the new men on Toronto's side were John Kent, Geo. Cooper (a pupil of my father's, in London, 1831), and Henry Rowsell, who, in London, had been a member of the great M.C.C. Almost, if not quite, to a man, the players on both sides were English-born; hence, at the dinner, after the toast to "The King," (William IV.), naturally came that to their "Native land." But, in 1836, a new order of things was inaugurated in the organization of the U.C.C. Cricket Club, whose first officers were: Patron, Sir Francis Bond Head (the then Governor of Upper Canada); President, John Kent (first boarding-house master); Vice-President, James Lukin Robinson (recently dead, and the eldest son of Sir John Beverley Robinson, Chief Justice, etc.); Treasurer, Augustus Keefer; Secretary, Larratt Smith. It will be noticed that three of the five were Canadian-born. The victory of the new club in its first year over the older city aggregation was a fitting precursor of the later matches, in which the masters, ex-pupils and pupils of Upper Canada College were more than a match for the province. The first College eleven was composed of masters (3), G. A. Barber, F. W. Barron, John Kent; pupils, Dyett, Hall, Aug. and T. C. Keefer, G. A. Phillpotts, J. L. and J. B. Robinson, and White, a Sussex player. The city eleven were W. H. Boulton (to whom the old Caer-Howell ground belonged, within my recollection purchasable for $500, now worth over $500,000), Draper, Head (a relative of the Governor), Humphreys, Lane, Loring, Maddock, Murray, Nash, Rowsell, and Wakefield. A few weeks later the school also won the return match, the College boys being reported as "elated with the result." During the same summer the teams were mixed in a "Single and Married" match, the former were victors by seven wickets. They were Cooper, Copeland, I. Gwynne, Head, Humphreys, Kent, Lane, the two Robinsons, Sam Sherwood, and W. Spragge. Benedicts were: Barber, Barron, Draper, Foote, Girdlestone, Harrington, Maddock, Murray, Rowsell, J. G. Spragge, and Wakefield. In 1846 the officers of the Toronto club were: President, W. H. Boulton; Vice-President, James

REV. T. D. PHILLIPPS

McGill Strachan ; Secretary-Treasurer, James Muttlebury ; Committee, Barber, Maddock, and Phillpotts. As this brings the narrative down to my own time, it may be interesting to state that of the thirty-five names mentioned in the events of the preceding decade or so, I knew twenty-eight, and have played with all but ten of these. The year 1847 is the first in which I took an active part in management, and it was as a nonconformist. For, conceiving that the boarding-house boys were monopolizing the grounds, implements, etc., of the cricket club to our almost entire exclusion, a number of us who were non-resident started a day-boys' club. Its legal title, if it had one, is lost in the mists of a hoary antiquity. But it was the making of some of us as cricketers. And here let me introduce an illustration of the fairness of our respected principal. The Hon. Lewis Moffatt having sent to the College a dozen bats, and some other paraphernalia, Mr. Barron assigned one-half of them for the use of our club, and their receipt was our first intimation of the donor's generosity. This was encouraging. But probably our best incentive was found in the permission of the committee of the Toronto club to practise daily on the outside of their crease—at that time the finest piece of turf used for that purpose in America. And although the out-fielding continued to be indifferent till improved in anticipation of the advent of Grace's eleven in 1872, so excellent was the plot conceded to our use that I have participated in scores, almost hundreds, of matches, since and down to the present day, on wickets that did not play nearly as true as it. Besides the writer, our club contained "Hutch" Esten, "Archie" McLean, "Harry" Maddock, Huson Murray and his brother, "Bob" (now Colonel) Newbigging, Horace Phillipps, "Charlie" (now Major-General and Governor of Chelsea Hospital) Robinson, and others whose names I cannot at the moment recall. Of each one it may truthfully be said, "Multum sudavit," for we spent all of our long vacation, outside of sleeping hours, on the cricket field ; frequently taking our lunch to the ground ; at other times getting French, the caretaker and professional, to supply it. I have to this day an unctuous recollection of his appetizing "chops and tomato sauce"; and yet not more so than of his encouraging me to hit to leg, bowling to me for the purpose; and, on a certain occasion, offering to back me to hit three out of every four leg-balls. Small wonder, then, that such assiduous practice, after such excellent coaching, drew down upon us the patronizing attention of our elders and superiors, so that as early as 1848 I was taken into a Toronto Eleven v. Rifle Brigade, on which occasion that little man, H. J. Maddock, the first "slow" underhand bowler I ever saw, captured all of the opposing team, always famous for its batting, for a total of 16 runs, the whole being, if I remember aright, clean bowled! By the way, he always wore a black beaver, whether bowling or batting—the last of his race.

I once saw a little man who came to the wicket with a beaver on (nearly one-fourth of his own height) bowled out as he was playing forward, by the ball striking his bat and driving it right into the wicket.

But I must ask the forbearance of the reader while once more I revert, and, by the aid of memory, turn back the hands on the dial of time. It must be a pleasant thought for those veteran cricketers who still survive that their prowess as contributors to the double victory of the Collegians over Civilians so soon after their being organized made it impossible thereafter for a Toronto eleven to be classed as thoroughly representative unless it contained a large, if not preponderating, element of Upper Canada College "boys." Indeed, not only may each of them and of their successors on the field of mimic warfare echo the proud boast, "Militavi non sine gloria," but who shall say one may if I give to them the credit of making Toronto, from that day forward, the headquarters of Canadian cricket? And so rapidly did this College contingent, at first regarded as a mere auxiliary force, rise in the scale of importance that, some ten years later, i.e., in 1847, "Upper Canada College v. The Province" (which included in this match Canada East), not only became an annual fixture, but was regarded as the cricket event of the year, hardly conceding its supremacy of interest even to the match with the United States. It was in that same year that I largely supplemented my cricket experience (begun when one of the fifty-seven boarders under Mr.

IMAGE EVALUATION TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Cousens, Kent's successor, in 1846) by hard practice with my associates in the nameless day-boys' club, whose constitution I know was a model of brevity. As I had a humble office in the old club in '46 (a few of my surviving contemporaries will be able to translate this obscure reference), my action in heading the movement for a rival institution at once stamped me as a renegade, whose plea for expansion and deliverance from monopoly could not be accepted as justifying separation. But we "got there" just the same, to borrow a Yankeeism. Our concession from the Toronto club, and the encouragement of its members, gave us a "local habitation." It would be hard to say to which we were most indebted for a "name"—the tuition of the club's professionals, Jim Sams and French, or our formal recognition by Barron, to which I referred above. En passant, the old-timers will recall the sudden cutting off of Sams (successor to his brother Jonathan), who was killed on Yonge street wharf by the snapping of a steamboat fender. Shortly after this the old College club so far forgot its ire and swallowed its dignity as to challenge my aggregation. As we were mere striplings alongside of Crooks, Riddleys, Stinsons, et id genus omne of the higher forms, our acceptance was so worded as to bar all boarders above the Fourth form. As a compromise the Fifth was taken in, though none of our side was above the Fourth. Two matches were played, each side winning one, but in the "conqueror" or third game, on the College ground, we won, though a Sixth form boarder played; I think it was "Punch" Boyd. Some incidents of this match are still remembered as if transpiring only yesterday. Old Barber was umpire, "Manning" Benjamin was demoralizing us by big hits to the "on" side, striking the fence near the old flag-pole every time, when I put on as bowler at the north end Harry Maddock, "scarcely taller than the wicket," as the umpire remarked. Not only did he bowl the dreaded Titan, but three others in the same over, thus securing for us the victory, and proving himself a worthy scion of a worthy sire. It may interest those of to-day to be told that in two of these three matches the newly-patented gutta percha ball was used, which, though promising, by reason of its cheapness, to abolish

"leather-hunting" as such, enjoyed only the brief innings of a year. It proved a weakling, developing an unfortunate propensity to become, without previous warning, two hemispheres, as a result of a batsman's attempt to make a four or a five—"boundaries" being a thing unknown to us, except as "over the fence." And here I must not omit to state that the two captains in that last match of my day, i.e., between boarders and day-boys, did not meet again on that ground till forty-four years had passed over their heads; and then on Saturday, August 29th, 1891, as again captains—a remarkable coincidence to result from mere accident—in the ever-to-be-remembered final cricket match on the old playground, of which the first ball was bowled by the "Old Boy" whose name heads the College register, Rev. Dr. Scadding; when, too, doctors, judges, lawyers, merchants, and parsons were to be seen successfully renewing their youth, physically as well as spiritually, and adding to the catalogue of good things in memory's treasure-house, of which, while life lasts, we may exclaim, "Hæc olim meminisse juvabit!"

One name mentioned before I cannot pass over without further notice. In George Anthony Barber we youngsters ever found a thoughtful tutor and kind foster-parent in cricket. To his judicious encouragement and winning smile my success is mainly attributable; no less than the consequent fact that I am to-day, at the age of 62, or nearly fifty years after his first notice of me, able to "hold up my end"—at any rate, sometimes. At the risk of inflicting upon my readers, I will mention a single instance. On one occasion I had the good fortune to make at point a one-handed catch which necessitated my jumping nearly two feet from the ground. "Look at that!" exclaimed G. A. B., "Caldecott himself could not do better." But, then, we practised fielding in those days. Small wonder is it that, with so appreciative a patron, I was selected, when little over 15, to play on a Toronto eleven against the military. The old man had his weaknesses, and who of us has not? "Nemo mortalium omnibus horis sapit." But as a judge of the manly game, as an encourager of young players, as a reliable commentator, as an enthusiastic cricketer, day in and day out, I have never met his equal. It is to him that I am indebted for the comments on the laws of cricket in my "Canadian Cricketer's Guide," of 1857—the first work on cricket, I believe, published in America. Having lost the thumb of his right hand, he played at manifest disadvantage; and yet his cutting of bail balls on the off stump was simply superb. Nothing could be prettier. About the year 1848—it may have been in the summer of 1849—a single wicket match was arranged between him and J. G. Humphreys, each man to do his own fielding. He won the toss; and, batting for two whole afternoons, scored 64 (not out). Though J.G. was a very reliable medium-paced round-arm bowler, he had failed at the expiration of the accorded time even to get an innings.

Well do I remember the inaugural match of the College v. Province series in 1847. The team was composed of one master, one ex-master, eight ex-pupils, and only one pupil (if my memory serves me aright), Adam Crooks. Mr. Barron was captain, and made 28; but was very indignant at being caught by "third man"—a then newly invented place in the field. G. A. B. made the top score of the day, 30 in his second innings. The ex-pupils were John Conolly, from Montreal, who scored a 5 off Sutton in the slips, (a performance which sorely tried the lungs and throats of us boys), and had a total of 29; H. J. Ruttan, from Cobourg; C. A. Sadlier, from Hamilton; and from Toronto, J. S. Muttiebury, famous as a long-stop; Ben Parsons, than whom America has produced no straighter round-arm bowler, (he was also noted as a hard left-hand leg hitter); A. Patrick; G. A. Phillpotts, the wicket-keeper of his day, whose round-arm bowling was destructive when on the wicket, a fast runner, with enormous stride, and making 24 in this match; J. B. Robinson, extremely active in the field, an upright bat, and said to be the record-breaker of his day in throwing the ball. In the next, as in all succeeding years till his death, four years ago, my dear old friend, J. O. Heward, was the life of the College eleven. No pluckier or luckier batsman ever handled the willow. And the two characteristics, luck and pluck, as complements of good, nervy play, are mighty factors in the compilation of heavy scores, of which Jack had more to his credit than any other of my contemporaries.

But my limits are about exhausted. Just two more facts. The first year of my playing in the "College match," 1852, was the last of the unbroken string of six consecutive victories. We lost in 1853, mainly owing to "Bill" Napier's magnificent bowling and batting, and the heavy scoring of Kivas Tully and of W. P. Pickering, all three still among the living. The last, Pycroft, author of that standard work, "The Cricket Field," proclaims to have been the greatest cover-point that England has produced—an accomplishment due to his being ambidexter. The last match in which I played as an ex-pupil of Upper Canada College was in 1876, when I had the good fortune to take the first ball and carry out my bat for 51, as many as our opponents scored in their two innings.

CHAPTER XX.

CANADIAN CRICKET, WITH SOME SOUND ADVICE TO CANADIAN CRICKETERS.

By FREDERICK GALE, ESQ.

NOTHING gave me greater pleasure than the receipt of your kind letter of November 3rd, which reached me a few days since, and, if it is of the slightest use to your book, I gladly say a few words about colonial cricket on this side of the Atlantic. Thanks to the great kindness of the cricketers of Toronto, I have been able to see two matches there on the athletic grounds (in consequence of, as I have understood, the builders having entered in, and usurped the former cricket ground); also a lacrosse match there, a most admirable exhibition of pluck and endurance, and of some of the best running I ever saw. And now I begin with cordially thanking the many kind and good friends who made me so welcome, and showed me all that was to be seen in the beautiful city of Toronto. I never received, as a total stranger, so many kindnesses in so short a time, as my tarry there was only one week, including two days at Niagara. I have experienced a similar welcome on the cricket grounds in Manitoba, where in the prairie districts matches are few and far between. They were good enough to ask me to take part in two matches, the latter of which was played three days after I entered on my seventieth year. It gave me an opportunity, which I much enjoyed, of having the legal right to take a place in the middle of the play, and once more, so to say, to be amenable to the orders of the captain, and to enjoy the din of battle. Need I say how stale I was?

I tell you honestly the opinion I formed of the Canadians in England, and in their own country, and also of the Philadelphians during their two English visits, who, though under a different banner, are practically our brother cricketers up to the very hilt, and it is this—both parties have in themselves the real spirit of the game, and I missed an evil of which the old school bitterly complains in England, in some of the public matches, as there was an absence of “legging” and “padding,” that is, trying to make the pad do duty as a second bat in the defence of the wicket. There was the absence also of noisy and dictatorial appeals to the umpire by the wicket-keeper on the chance of a decision against the batsman, sometimes made by a “chorus” of the field, who could not have any possibility of seeing the line of the ball; the rushing in for a sprinkle of rain if the match was going for the inside; the standing passive by the batsman without making an offer to play or hit balls which even sent up to the off side for fear of spoiling an average, as well as to wear out time. Many such dodges as these are now a matter of open complaint in some of the great exhibition matches in England, but, fortunately, the majority of public players do not adopt them. All bowling was also scrupulously fair. All the cricket which I have seen in Canada appears to me a manly, honest contest for the honor of victory and enjoyment of harmony and good-fellowship. Of course, in Prairieland there is much necessary economy, but I was much pleased at the simplicity of the cricket dinners at very small charges, although I would not “lay my bottom dollar” that I should have passed untasted a jug of whiskey and seltzer, had it come under my nose. I was perfectly contented at a charming smoking concert, at Melita, after a match where the “fire-water” was barred, and I found the hearty welcome and good-fellowship doubly grateful, being myself nearly five thousand miles away from home. Moreover, another thing pleased me very much, which was ex necessitate imperative on the prairies, and that is that both sides, when in the field, accepted the umpireship of two of the inside who took it turn and turn about to stand umpire, and I never saw more impartial decisions, which were asked for with temper and calmness, and instantly accepted without a murmur, even in cases where it was a near point.

I can only repeat that from what I saw of the Canadians and Philadelphians in England, and what I have seen of the former here—and I hope to see the Philadelphians “at home” in America next year—that the real old genuine fire of cricket for its own sake and as a friendly pastime burns very steadily and well. It reminds me very much of the old days which I have lived through when cricket was supported mostly by funds supplied by good amateurs, who, by purse and person, and great sacrifice of time and money, promoted the grand matches and had almost absolute control, and nothing in the shape of sharp practice would be tolerated. I am not blackening the old country, but it is an undeniable fact that now the wild excitement about championships and averages have not improved some of the great matches. One thing I would venture to counsel those who are starting in conducting cricket centres, which is to avoid as much as possible boundary hits. The game of cricket was, and ought to be, a trial of courage, training, condition, and endurance, plus skill and nerve. The boundary hits became an absolute necessity to some extent. At Lords they were first introduced, barring hits to the old pavilion (which was a small building), which always counted four. When the North and South match at Whit-Monday drew an enormous crowd, four runs were allowed for a hit into the crowd at the lower side near to the tennis court, which was most crowded, but boundary hits were limited to one side of the ground only. By degrees, on most grounds now there are boundary hits on all sides. The best amateurs now of the old school who ever lived tried in vain to carry a point that at Lords, which is almost surrounded by stands, a continuous skirting board two feet in height should be placed all round, and that all balls which did not bound over it should be fetched back by the field; but the interested parties, backed up in many cases by committees of counties much comprised of men who practically do not understand the game in its true sense, but who get on to committees for aggrandizement and position, are too strong. They and the crowd like the enormous scores, and the players are by no means inclined for more hard work than they can help. I saw Mr. W. W. Read score his 338 runs against Oxford University at the Oval some few years ago, and the late Mr. M. P. Bowden also make a very large score, much over 100 runs. To score 338 runs, of course, is a great feat, but there were 44 boundary hits, more than half the total. Of course the bowling, which was all amateur, got worn out, and the ground was like a lawn. It was a great feat, but not cricket according to the ideas of the old school, as less than half the score was not run out.

The only improvement which I could have suggested at the two matches which I saw at Toronto is that, with solid boundaries-palings all round the athletic grounds where the matches were played, the two sides ought to have run all runs out without boundary hits, as there was no crowd to interfere. And this ought to be the case wherever there are solid boundaries out of the crowd. I much admired the custom of prohibition of smoking in the covered stands where ladies were, which practically amounted to giving up all the best places to the fair sex. Another thing in the game as played out here pleased me, which was the extreme jealousy with which "byes" were watched. As you know, probably, on the prairies the ground is always rough and fiery, and consequently long scores are rare, and a man must play with a very straight bat and good nerve to get a fair score. I was pleased to see long-stop in his old place and to watch his zeal in saving byes, and in every match I saw it was well done, and there were very few extras. "Point," too, stood where he ought to, from six to eight yards from the batsman, and not twelve or fourteen yards off, as many "so-called" points do in grand matches in England. That position is not cricket. W. G. and E. M. Grace stand close up.

And now I have done what you asked me to, and have spoken a piece, and the moral which I wish to convey is this, namely: At present you have amongst you well established the very noblest of our English games, and you are untrammelled by sharp practice and unnecessary expense. Keep it so, and cling like dear life to an eminent virtue which you have in offering kindness, hospitality, friendship, and fair play to visitors from old England.

CHAPTER XXI.

CHAPTER XXVI.

ENGLISH GENTLEMEN IN CANADA IN 1885

With account of same, by C. E. HORNER (of Surrey), one of the eleven.

THE team of Gentlemen that visited Canada, in 1885, was composed as follows: The Rev. R. T. Thornton, captain, Kent; J. A. Turner, Cambridge University and Leicestershire; A. J. Thornton, Kent; H. O. Whitby, Oxford University; W. E. Roller, Surrey; H. Bruen, Royal Artillery; C. E. Horner, Surrey; A. R. Cobb, Oxford University; A. E. Newton, Somersetshire; T. R. Hine-Haycock, Kent; W. E. T. Bolitho, Oxford University; E. J. Sanders, Old Harrovians, manager.

After playing several matches in the States, we arrived at Toronto to play our first match in Canada against All Ontario; the team selected to play against us being as follows:

W. W. Vickers, Toronto; M. Boyd, Toronto; A. H. Stratford, Toronto; Dr. E. R. Ogden, Toronto, A. C. Allan, Toronto; W. W. Jones, Toronto; T. W. Dixon, St. George's, Toronto.

D. W. Saunders, Guelph.

A. Gillespie, Hamilton; S. Cummings, Hamilton; R. B. Ferrie, Hamilton.

Unfortunately, September 10th was pouring wet, consequently it was early decided to postpone a beginning until the next morning, which turned out fine, and very hot. The ground is a very pretty one, but we found that the surrounding trees made the outfielding very difficult. We won the toss, but, as the wicket was very soft and quickly drying from the fierce rays of the sun, our captain decided to put the Ontarios in. Our foresight proved correct, as none of the opposing team, with the exception of W. W. Vickers, who made 32, played the bowling of Bruen and Roller with any confidence, and were all dismissed for 76. Bruen obtained four wickets for 24, and Roller was instrumental in dismissing six of our opponents for 32. The English team also made a poor show at the commencement against the bowling of Ferrie and Ogden, losing A. J. Thornton, Bolitho, Turner, and Hine-Haycock for 18 runs. Horner, Cobb, and Roller came to the rescue and added 67 runs for the sixth wicket, and, helped by some hard hitting by Horner and Roller, we made the respectable score of 133. For the Canadians, Ferrie and Ogden both bowled well, the former obtaining four wickets for 39 and Ogden five for 59. Their fielding was good, and Saunders kept wicket exceedingly well. The first day's play came to an end on the completion of our innings. The next day was again fine and hot, and consequently the wicket was even more tricky than before. The Ontarios, in their second innings, again failed signally against the bowling of Bruen, Roller, and Whitby, and were all dismissed for the miserable total of 38, and, consequently, defeated by an innings and 20 runs, the only one to make any show being A. H. Stratford (18). There is no doubt that the wicket was very difficult, and there was not much disgrace in the Ontarios being so decisively defeated, considering our strong bowling powers. It was in this match that Roller so strained his arm that he did not bowl another ball during the tour, and was compelled to stand out of the next two matches, one of which was against Philadelphia. The match being over early, it was decided to play a return and draw stumps the next day at 5 o'clock. The teams were the same, except that Gillespie had to return home, W. Ledger taking his place. On our side, E. J. Sanders took the place of Roller, for the reasons already stated. We played a dashing innings of 225, and the strength of the Canadian bowling was thoroughly tested, Turner, R. T. Thornton, and Cobb all playing fine cricket. Ogden again bowled well, and the fielding was smart. With the fall of the last wicket, stumps were drawn for the day. In the evening we were all entertained at dinner by the members of the cricket club.

The next day saw the Ontarios a second time defeated in a single innings, this time being dismissed for 63 and 64. W. W. Jones scored double figures in each venture, but the best cricket was that of Saunders, who made 28 in the first innings. We were all very much disappointed with the display of the Canadians, even taking the wickets into consideration. At the same time we were much elated at our success, especially as All Ontario had just defeated the Philadelphians, and this made our prospects against them very rosy. How this analogy of form was scattered to the winds is a matter of history. Most of us were fortunate in meeting most of our opponents when they visited England, where a vast improvement was noticed. In the two matches that I played against them—viz., at the Oval, for the Gentlemen of Surrey, and at Lords for the Gentlemen of the M.C.C.—their cricket was of the highest order.

We left the same evening for Montreal to play against fifteen of that district.

We arrived at Montreal the next day, and there found that great arrangements had been made for our arrival, it having even been arranged that the Stock Exchange should adjourn the next day for the match. A grand banquet was also to be given in the evening in our honor. It was a glorious day, not a cloud in all the calm and glowing sky, and the heat was delightfully tempered with a cool and delicious breeze.

Again we were doomed to a slow wicket, and, as at Toronto, under the hot rays of the sun it became more difficult as the day advanced. We won the toss, and, electing to go in, started with the brothers Thornton to the bowling of Lacey and Gillespie, the latter having played against us at Toronto. I may mention that Wright, of Boston, was to have played for Montreal, but was scared away by the smallpox. He would have been a great addition, as he bowled extremely well against us at Boston. With the exception of Cobb, who played a splendid not-out innings of 47, none of us did much, and we were all dismissed for 110. Sills bowled well, and took four wickets for 28 runs. The innings terminated at 1.30, so luncheon was then taken. On going into bat the Montrealers showed us that they were not at all at home with slow bowling, and were all dismissed for 28 runs. Bruen had the marvellous analysis of nine wickets for 12 runs. Wanting but two runs to save the follow on, Montreal had again to act on the defensive. Finding that slow bowling was not to their liking, we this time gave A. J. Thornton a chance with his underhands. This proved most successful, he obtaining eleven wickets for 27 runs, and, the whole side being dismissed for 42 runs, were thus beaten in an innings and 30 runs. It is a curious fact that not one of the Montrealers obtained double figures in either innings.

As at Toronto, the match being over early, we agreed to play a return. The fifteen did much better this time, scoring 93, although only W. J. Wilson and Atwood reached double figures. On our going in we knocked up 133 for four wickets, Bolitho, who was singularly unlucky during the tour, making 41, and Cobb the same number, not out, hitting one ball clean out of the ground and on to the roofs of the houses. The next day we left to play our first match against All Philadelphia. Thus ended our little tour in Canada, most successful from our point of view, as we may say we defeated All Toronto and fifteen of Montreal each twice. Although the Canadians showed us nothing remarkable in the way of cricket, they quite made up for it by their kindness, and we were all very sorry to leave.

CHAPTER XXX.

CANADIAN GENTLEMEN IN ENGLAND, 1887

With an account of the trip by MR. D. W. SAUNDERS.

THE Canadian team which visited England in 1887 may appropriately be called "Mr. George Lindsey's eleven."

It was Mr. Lindsey who conceived the idea of the trip. The work—and hard work it was—of getting the men together, and of making the necessary arrangements for the tour and its subsequent management, devolved almost entirely upon him, and whatever meed of approbation the successful carrying out of the project deserved, to Mr. Lindsey it chiefly belongs.

The proposal had, from its inception, the warm support of the cricketing public and of the press in Canada; some prominent public men, too, led by that good sportsman, our then Governor-General, Lord Lansdowne, contributed to the finances, so that the venture had, as well, the stamp of public approval.

The team—although a stronger might have been chosen—was fairly representative, all its members were born on Canadian soil, and were distinctively amateurs.

Dr. E. R. Ogden, who preceded the rest of the eleven and met them on their arrival in Dublin, was accorded the captaincy, and exercised his authority with excellent judgment, and throughout the tour enjoyed the entire confidence of his men. These were: Arthur C. Allan, Trinity College, Toronto; W. C. Little, Ottawa; W. A. Henry and C. J. Annand, Wanderers' Club, Halifax; George W. Jones, St. John, N.B.; A. Gillespie and R. Ferrie, Hamilton; and W. W. Jones, W. J. Fleury, W. W. Vickers, and Dyce W. Saunders, Toronto.

R. C. Dickson accompanied the eleven as scorer, and the party also included C. N. Shanly and W. L. M. Lindsey, whose duties were not clearly defined, but who were occasionally of use. Mr. Shanly played in two matches, but Mr. W. L. M. Lindsey did not render the team active service in the field.

Prior to sailing, the eleven, assisted by Mr. H. J. Bethune, played at Seabright, N.J., a team of twelve representing All New York, and won an interesting game.

Having had but one afternoon's previous practice after their voyage, the eleven played in Dublin a strong team of the Gentlemen of Ireland, the result being an utter rout for Canada; this was partially retrieved, however, by their winning, against almost the same eleven, a one-innings match arranged at the conclusion of the regular game.

Then followed two defeats in succession, at Edinburgh and Newcastle, by the Gentlemen of Scotland and of Northumberland respectively, but a good draw at Sunderland with the Gentlemen of Durham, and a victory at Buxton over the Gentlemen of Derbyshire, gave the team more confidence. The Gentlemen of Sussex won easily the match at Brighton, and then Canada bearded the British Lion, as represented by the Gentlemen of M.C.C., in his den, at Lords.

On that historic ground, on the August bank holiday and the day following, was met a very strong team; and, expecting to be easily defeated, the Canadians did themselves great credit in playing an excellent drawn game. Then followed a succession of drawn matches in the south and west—against the United Services at Portsmouth, the Gentlemen of Surrey at the Oval, of Hampshire at Southampton, of Gloucestershire at Yatton, and of Staffordshire at Stoke-on-Trent.

Then a win at Birmingham against the Gentlemen of Warwickshire, and another draw at Leicester, brought the team to Liverpool, where they were defeated by a powerful amateur team representing the district. This game was the last of the tour as originally planned, but two more matches were arranged, the one at Oxtou against the Gentlemen of West Cheshire resulting in a draw, and the final game—a well-contested match—against a team chosen and captained by Mr. C. I. Thornton, played at Norbury Park, was won by Canada.

The tour throughout was well managed, and the reception accorded to the eleven on all hands was hearty and encouraging; the visit could not, therefore, fail of being enjoyable.

A mistake was made in playing too many matches in the limited time, and this should be avoided if a similar trip is again undertaken.

The members of the team received many useful hints and much valuable instruction in the game in the course of the tour, and there is no doubt that, through them, Canadian cricketers at large have profited.

The modern game of bowling mainly to the off and placing nearly all the fielders on that side was then seen for the first time by Canadians, and the decadence in Canada of the long-stop as a recognized position in the field also dates from 1887. The unwearied patience of the great batsmen who played against us, among whom were many reckoned as hard hitters, was a grand object lesson to our men. So, also, was their running between the wickets—if there is any chance of a second run, the first is always made at top speed; one never sees, in England, a run thrown away by the batsman ambling up the pitch as if the score was no object. Punctuality is insisted upon; no aggravating delays are permitted in commencing play at the beginning of the day or after luncheon; to be behind time is the mark of the “duffer.”

These are but a few of the many lessons taught by the visit to England in 1887.

In mentioning these features one, after all, does no more than say that in England the game is played as it should be played everywhere. Cricket deserves that its votaries should give it their best efforts; and, if this were always remembered by Canadians, the game would win a popularity with the public here which is not now accorded it, and which it would then more than ever deserve.

The scores of the matches, in full, are as follows :

CHAPTER XLII.

AUSTRALIA IN CANADA, 1893

AUSTRALIA v. CANADA

Played at Toronto, October 17th and 18th, 1893.

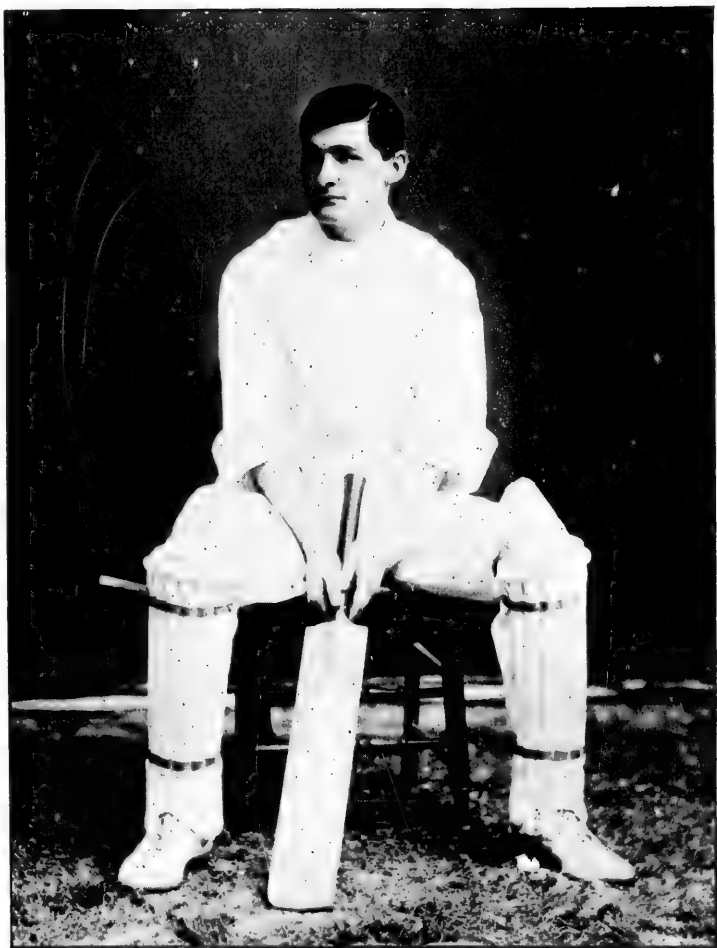

THE second game between the colonies took place on the grounds of the Rosedale club, Toronto, on above dates.

On this occasion Canada played eleven men only, and they were more successful than the twenty-two in the first match. Our men, owing to the lateness of the season, were not in practice; and, taking this into consideration, and also the strength of the opposing team, the result reflected credit on them. Captain W. W. Jones handled his men with excellent judgment, and, in addition, made double figures in each innings. Cameron played very well for his 30 (not out), as also did Wadsworth for 19. In Canada's second innings Laing played capital cricket, his cutting particularly being magnificent. Bowbanks played with great coolness and skill for his 27. Cooper's bowling was noteworthy, the Australians confessing they had never seen such a curve in the air from the leg before, and Mr. Bannerman stated that if they had him in Australia they would make him one of the best bowlers in the world. The fielding was good, and only a wicket-keeper was wanting. Leigh's hands having been injured during practice, he was unable to do himself justice, hence the large number of extras. The play of the Australians hardly calls for criticism. It will be enough to say they played like thorough sportsmen and with the best feeling all through the game.

Australia won by an innings and 70 runs.
